Not state's responsibility but...

Governor signs 'Festival' bill

by Darlene Rimmlingspeck

As a result of a bipartisan effort, the state will be granted a $5 million dollar bond to help finance the Federal Way cultural center. Two leaders in the Federal Way community, Congressman Norm Dicks, 6th District Democrat, and State Rep. Bob Eichler, R. 6, Sandy Luepscher, lobbyist for the festival bill, Rep. Frank O'Brien, D-Everett, and Eric Rabeal, R. 35, were both instrumental in the passage of the bill.

The $5 million state bond authorized by the bill will be used as matching money for $5 million being sought from the federal government to build the "Festival in the Forest" theater on 26 acres of Weyerhaeuser donated land near Panther Lake. Although exhaustive about getting the bill signed after a grueling campaign through two legislative sessions, state Rep. Eric Rabeal, R. 35, stated that the money will be "acceptable to the maximum number of tourists.

Other areas that have sought state seed money for cultural arts facilities include Lynnwood, Tacoma, the Tri-Cities and Olympia. The $15 million bond authorized by the bill will be used as matching money for $15 million being sought from a federal government to build the Federal Way cultural center.

in state help for other cultural sites.

The sale of state bonds to finance the Federal Way site is dependent on federal approval of the $15 million grant. Congressman Norm Dicks, 6th District Democrat, has predicted that the money will eventually be approved although perhaps not in the current session of Congress. The land was donated by the Weyerhaeuser Company as part of an open space dedication effort which was a condition of county approval of the West Campus plat.

In her letter to the Governor, Ray said the understanding was that the increased state revenue from the festival site is expected in the current session of Congress. The Festival and other possible events "will provide an additional increment of state revenue sufficient to retire the bond debt."

Carpooling woes

by Nathalie Weber

As traffic increases, the voices that usually tell the public what to do in the face of a crisis find the solution isn't that easy. They don't want to drive the car. They also placed the "for sale" sign in a fast lane with a freeway exit nearby only to see the "no gas" sign go up before he reached the pump. He sought out another station, but found none on freighters. He waited in a gas line for three hours only to see the "no gas" sign go up before he reached the pump. Dragon in drama

Can a poetry-reading dragon and a town full of nervous people find happiness together? Of course they can in the comical presentation of the "Reluctant Dragon" soon on stage at Nautilus Elementary.

Eleven kindergarteners with the help of ambitious moms who worked backstage with clothing, props and make-up brought the play to life during dress rehearsal recently. Occasionally stiff giggles when the giant dragon stuffed with balloons whipped his tail through the scenery, they never muffed a line.

The older kids, fourth through sixth-graders, had their chance to shine when they presented a three-part oriental comedy. With lines like "A fool and his money now-a-days get invited just about everywhere" and "A Rose by any other name would probably not be recognized," how could they miss.

The students are involved in a PTA sponsored school fun night designed to introduce youngsters to the arts. Organizer Karen McElroy, PTA vice president said she and Patty Boydston recently visited a Seattle Junior League Arts and Education forum that suggested programs that would promote "getting arts into the school and more community involvement."

"We're hoping it's something that will be continued every year," said Ms. McElroy. In addition, the play will be presented to residents at Wesley Gardens and possibly at Wesley Terrace in Des Moines. "They (the residents) are pretty excited about it," said Ms. McElroy.

Volunteers McElroy and Boydston directed the oriental comedy and Liz Jacobson and Nancy Nye worked with the "Reluctant Dragon." The scenery, designed for a quick switch on two sheets strung over wire hung across the back of the stage was taken care of by Julie Stahl and Kelly Zembruski.

An American Red Cross campaign has been designated the "Zone 3" portion of the community to be served. Every mother knows that every year the American Red Cross asks for mothers in Zone 3 to volunteer. The children are asked to participate in the community's "Day of Service." Every child who volunteers is expected to serve the community in some way. Zone 3 is the area south of the airport, and the children are expected to serve their community in some way. Zone 3 is expected to ask for one representative from the area to serve on the committee, but Zone 3 is expected to ask for one more representative to serve on the committee. The committee will sponsor a "Day of Service" at Camp Waskowitz this summer.

Applying for PAC membership

For the second consecutive year, the Highline School District will sponsor a "Gym Kamp" for students at Camp Waskowitz near North Burien.

Students will be accepted at three skill levels in gymnastics. Instruction, include tumbling, balance beam, vault, floor exercise, and outdoor activities such as hiking, rappelling, and slide climbing. Tuition is $20 per pupil. Registration forms and dates of the additional sessions, scheduled at three skill levels, will be sent to Zone 3 residents.

Applicants should live in Zone 3, defined as the area bounded by the Seattle city limits on the north, 241st Street South on the east, Ninth Avenue South on the west, and Rainier Avenue South on the south. Applicants should have a working knowledge of the American Red Cross at each level.

The class will meet at Rainier Pool to continue instruction, including swimming ability.

Grass Roots Gardening by Ginna Koonzt The azalea color Azaleas are classed as evergreen, deciduous and semi- evergreen. Semi-evergreen means that although harry some evergreen species shed foliage in winter. Evergreen azalea col or range from white through pink, red, cor al, salmon, brick, through pink, red other colors. Most reach from two to three feet in height although there are some taller grow ing evergreen azaleas.

In the early 1940's the introduction of many Shrop Hill and Exbury hybrids into the Northwest stimulated interest in all the deciduous azalea varieties. They offer an exciting color range from pure white, ivory, the yellows and oranges, pale pink to red. There are over 100 named deciduous azalea varieties in the Pacific Northwest. Many named azalea hybrids are superior plants. The key is to purchase white thus to ensure color choices. Some of the most showy deciduous azaleas are among the species. It may take some browsing to find them but look for R. maille (Chinese molle (Chinese azalea), in six feet, upright, two- and one-half inch yellow in golden-orange blooms in April; R. Schlippenbachianum, six feet high and wide, large two to four inch pale pink flowers in clusters, late April; R. Vansy, shell pink, upright growing to six feet, late May. by Harry Brooks

A throwing error by Harry Brooks cut Proo’s theft bid short. Stadium took a 2-0 win over Federal Way in the seventh inning.

Jeff Woodworth, Randy Bendorf, moved to the mound and flipped to Osterhage to end the inning. He just made the play. He done all year — come up with the key hit when we needed it.

But Federal Way’s season was over. The outcome also disappointed Gordon Proo, who expected a higher scoring game, was miffed with his Eagles’ lost Saturday.

Federal Way coach Bob Stewart, after the disappointing day, was disappointed with the Eagles’ effort. He praised Bendorf’s performance, but he didn’t hit the ball well.

The loss was a disappointing start to the Federal Way drive into the playoffs. The Eagles lost a one-game first-round road playoff game to the regionally ranked Ridgefield. They lost their last two league games, but they let the region decide in Lakes in a one-game, winner-take-all playoff for the number-one entry into the state tournament.

Thursday, May 25, Federal Way, with a 3-4 record, won a game by going to the Region 3. However, senior players who will be back next season include Doug Tisdell, Matt Schlegel, Todd McGrady, Bart Turcik, Paul Weymiller and Troy Poddolinsky.

McConnaughey to quit track post

Don McConnaughey, head track coach at Highline Community College since 1962, will resign as head coach at Highline High School, where he has been the only track coach for the last 27 years. McConnaughey has been the head track coach at Highline College and Highline High School since 1962. He will remain at Highline High as a teacher.

Chuck Czubin, assistant track coach, will take over the coaching role for next season's Thunderbird team. McConnaughey has also been the athletic director at the college.

Before coming to the Northwest, McConnaughey was a high school track and football coach in Arkansas and Texas. Czubin compiled a winning percentage of better than .700 in his stint as Pirate head coach.

McConnaughey said he quit coaching to allow more time for teaching and administrative duties.

Diamond Jim's beats Hobby

Last Wednesday at North Lake, a 6-1 Diamond Jim's victory, faced Hobby Headquarters' 7-0, in the battle for first place in the American Charter. The Raiders scored the first run of the season with two on and nailing two Excellence for a grandslam hit by Bradley Drew. Center fielder Byron Penor continued to hit with strong hitting by Drue Caneay, Joe Hill and Kelly Rake. The story of the game, however, was the outstanding performance given by the entire Raider outfield.

1979 major hunting seasons announced

Final season dates for the 1979 hunting season were adopted by the Washington State Game Commission. The final dates approved closely followed the pattern presented by the Game Department’s Wildlife Management Division. Minor changes included an earlier closing date for three areas in Spokane and Whitman counties during the general buck deer season, an earlier opening date for several archery areas and elimination of either-sex elk permit hunting in the Tucannon unit.

The commission adopted the area-tag elk season, calling for hunters to buy one of five supplemental elk tags: a blue tag for the Blue Mountains area, a gray tag for the Colockum elk area, a green tag for all westside areas, a salmon-colored tag for the early Yakima area elk season and a yellow tag for the late Yakima elk season. The general bull elk seasons are: (Blue) Nov. 7 to Nov. 18; (Gray) Oct. 29 to Nov. 7, EXCEPT Oct. 29 to Nov. 2 in Elk Area No. 33, the West Bar area; (Green) Nov. 11 to Nov. 25; (Salmon) Nov. 4 to Nov. 18; (Yellow) Nov. 10 to Nov. 18. Dates adopted by the Game Commission for the general buck deer seasons are Oct. 13 to Nov. 8 and Nov. 24 to 28 in westside counties, plus Klickitat County; Oct. 13 to Nov. 11 in Chelan County and Okanogan County except that part in GMU’s 200 and 206; Oct. 13 to 27 in Adams, Douglas, Franklin and Grant counties and several areas in Kittitas County; Oct. 13 to Nov. 2 in Benton, Yakima and Kittitas counties, excluding Units 224, 228 and 322 in Kittitas; Oct. 13 to Nov. 4 in Ferry County outside Units 200 and 206, also Asotin, Columbia, Garfield, Lincoln, Pend Oreille, Spokane, Stevens, Walla Walla and Whitman counties, except closing Oct. 28 in Units 127, 139 and 139.

CHRIS FISHER, 10, a fourth-grader at Lakeland Elementary, landed this 20-inch, 4 1/2-pound trout at Five Mile Lake one week after opening day of trout season. Pictured with Chris is Five Mile Lake Park manager Ron Lewallen, who said Chris’ catch was one of the largest ever taken from Five Mile Lake. Chris, the son of Bruce and Judy Fisher, used eggs and bobber to catch the giant.

Deadline for beard contest

Beards, a sign of individuality, strength and virility are back in fashion. Men who do not like to fly in the wind, they can sport a beard with pride.

They add a sense of mystery to all clothes. One smart bearded fellow, Van Winkle without his white beard, would attract attention from all the ladies. Santa has been with a closely shaven face ever since.

Now’s your choice. The Federal Way News is sponsoring a beard contest. Four winners will be selected. Complete details will be available in next week’s issue of the Federal Way News.

Deadline for students

Four local high school students whose fates they hold are spending their summer vacations learning about the Cooperative Extension Service. Students plan trips to Japan.

The Cooperative Extension Service provides a Dial Extension telephone number which can give you information on a number of household problems. If you are able to solve some of your own concerns without having others, you will save budget expenses.

Local community college offers classes in personal finances and simple investment. These are geared for the novice. More advanced classes are also available. Many W.V.C.A. has a schedule of classes to deal with budgeting in inflationary times. There are many local manufacturers, primarily in the electronics and clothing outlets which have thrived or outlets or outlets throughout the City where items may be purchased at considerably lower prices than those in retail outlets. For instance, day-old baked goods which are fresh at their peak and sold at a reduced price. Local jacket manufacturers in South Seattle, Pioneer Square and Tukwilla have outlet stores. With summer coming, the local markets of farmers in surrounding towns will be open. Kent’s Saturday market opened this past weekend. For used items for the home, there is always a local Swap Meet or garage sale. Thrift stores have a clothing of high quality.

Dear Wendy,

I have been hearing the term "Displaced Homemaker" lately. What does it mean?

A "Displaced Homemaker" is a person who has devoted substantial number of years to work in the home (usually ten years) and who has lost her job or his means of support. This means that the "Displaced Homemaker" must seek paid employment to replace the lost support. "Displaced Homemakers are usually widows, divorced women, although they have been women whose husbands are incapacitated, or who have lost government support, because their children are no longer minors. There have been some momentous changes in this field, but there is always a local Swap Meet or garage sale. Thrift stores have a clothing of high quality.

Whitman students

Two students from this area were honored at the recent Banquet at Whitman College. Walls Walla for having received a grade point average of 3.5 or better.

They are John H. Felder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenyon, and Mrs. John E. Whitman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Whitman.

Swim classes offered

Mr. Rainer Poul, a King County Department of Parks and Recreation facility, will sponsor a "Swimming Aide Course" to begin at 4 p.m. June 4 at the pool. The class will open June 13 at the pool.

Kristine Rickert wins honor

Kristine Rickert, 17, recently was a Las Vegas holiday for two weeks for being a top student in the high English classes.
