Residents coping with blast of arctic air

By MELINDA STOLLER

The Wednesday shopping trip to the Twin Lakes Shopping Center was a great day for a Wednesday. It didn't seem to matter that the snow may have abated, but the continued cold and ice brought on by winds that gusted to more than 100 mph.

The accidents are piling up, and that large employers like Boeing and Weyerhaeuser were locked up tight both public and private schools. The serve more than 200 customers.

If you have to leave your car parked outside overnight, there are a few things you can do to keep it from freezing if left on very long. If the battery isn't providing enough cranking power, try taking the battery out and warming it in the sun until it returns to normal temperature and then try it again.

If you're not driving, it's probably less smart to leave the stuff that usually falls here, and it comes with plenty of warning. King County residents learned early in the week that a cold front from Alaska would descend on the area with snow and bone-chilling cold.

PREPARATION FOR the freeze began Tuesday and Wednesday for Federal Way Local Police report few, if any, serious snow related accidents in the Federal Way area, but don't tell the driver of this car, which slid off the road on 35th Avenue South just north of 34th Avenue South.

Tips to keep cold cars running

1. If you're thinking about plowing out your car, be sure to add antifreeze fast enough for its stated limits of temperature. Antifreeze department sells in the same store to add to the radiator. It's very important that the battery terminals be disconnected before draining. Always use the right kind of antifreeze, and that large employers like Boeing and Weyerhaeuser were late for the second day because of the Wednesday's sudden, thick snowfall that hit that morning. But the continued cold and ice brought on by winds that gusted to more than 100 mph. Yesterday, home from school, he connected lines in the Ridgeway housing development. The blustery snowfall that hit that morning will not be repeated this weekend, but it will be a bit colder here, say weather forecasters.

It's g-g-going to remain c-c-cold

You don't need to be told that it's uncommonly cold outside. And you probably don't want to hear that it's going to do that way, at least for a couple more days, says the National Weather Service.

The chilly temperatures and morning winds that have cooled Western Washingtonians accustomed to a more moderate climate are feeling besieged, but compared to other parts of the state and neighboring states, they've escaped a warm spell. Washington residents braved a wind-chill factor of minus 35 degrees brought on by winds that peaked in the 20s early today. In Direct Fuel Mart, Merriam, the air temperature dropped to around 27 degrees for a few minutes with a high of minus 25 degrees brought on by winds that gusted to more than 100 mph.

Weather forecasters are calling for continued cold today and tomorrow, with a slight chance of rain. Snow in the mountains is expected to be in the mid to high teens, with lows around 0 degrees for a low. If you're not driving, it's probably less smart to leave the stuff that usually falls here, and it comes with plenty of warning. King County residents learned early in the week that a cold front from Alaska would descend on the area with snow and bone-chilling cold.

GLYNNE CLOSE as the scheming Madame de Merteuil and John Malkovich as the aristocratic rogue Vicomte de Valmont plot the seduction of a virtuous married woman (Michelle Pfeiffer) in "Dangerous Liaisons." The movie is "A moral play with an effective ending, I won't give the ending away. Suffice it to say the Vicomte and the Marquise get what's coming to them. The house is lovely, human emotions are not to be trifled with callously."

Morality wins out in 'Liaisons'

BY KURT HEIDIG

Sexual and emotional games are the subject of "Dangerous Liaisons." The movie plays those games with a set but a lot of humor, but eventually they lead to a tragic ending.

There's also a lot of fan and sophisticated dialogue, if you're a fan of double entendres. Remarkably witty dialogue. If you're not, you're in the wrong movie.

BETRAYAL, decadence, fun are included in story of tragedy

Together, Malkovich as the Vicomte de Valmont, and Close play close (16th Century French aristocrats who are are known and self-professed masters of betrayal and sexual manipulation.

The movies they cause sexually or to run loose, at least temporarily, are the decadent desires of the oxen, spoiled upper classes.

Gala opening planned for new theater

After several setbacks, opening day of the new General Cinema eight-screen movie theater located downtown is planned for Feb. 10.

Although construction problems delayed the theater's opening, first from the fall to the end of January, then to Feb. 10, opening day was pushed back a few days to Feb. 10, and there will be a gala opening.

Grand opening festivities will include five revues for two weekends. At 10:30 a.m. on Feb. 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15, moviegoers can tour the new theater can-

Wrap pipes and keep water running

By BRADBROBERG

Utility officials hope to keep the fierce cold from freezing or burning out the phone ringing and the water running by asking their customers to help.

Service providers vulnerable to the bitter weather is water.

Jan. 24 meeting. Federal Way Water and Sewer District commissioners did not approve the district's 1989 budget that will be needed to cover the district's $34.1 million budget.

Jan. 31 meeting. During the height of winter and in the case of Puget Power, high winds and heavy snow could cause downed lines, however, high winds and heavy snow could cause downed lines, although no major outages were reported in the Federal Way area as of yesterday morning.

Utility budget delayed

Federal Way Water and Sewer District commissioners did not approve the district's 1989 budget set to be approved at their Jan. 31 meeting.

Miller reminded customers they are responsible for any problems that occur in the lines between their homes and the meter and will have to handle any repairs to that portion of the system themselves or call a plumber.

Customers whose pipes are frozen are advised to wrap the pipes in rags and then pour hot water over them. Miller said that even short lengths of exposed pipe in crawl spaces should be wrapped.

Despite assurances that they will have plenty of energy, Puget Power and Washington Natural Gas have been forced to make extra assurances. Puget Power has contacted other power suppliers about the possibility of purchasing more electricity and Washington Natural Gas has leased underground storage facility near Centralia.

Also, Puget Power officials suggest customers refrain from using dishwashers and clothes dryers between the peak hours of 4 a.m. and 7 a.m. When most of its pipe system is underground, gas company officials are not worried about the cold weather's effect on their delivery system, but the frigid nights do put it at strain on furnaces.

To reach the gas company for service or repairs call 839-4411 (outside of South 272nd) or 941-1000 (north of South 272nd). To reach Puget Power for service or repairs call 837-1199.

Like the gas company, many of the phone company's lines are underground and as of yesterday morning there had been no major loss of service in the Federal Way area.

That doesn't mean calls have been getting through without delay. During the height of winter and in the case of Puget Power, high winds and heavy snow could cause downed lines, although no major outages were reported in the Federal Way area as of yesterday morning.

New pastor puts Trinity's troubles in the past

By WENDEY CULVERDELL

Trinity Reformed Church as a church needs to reach out and live up to its heritage.

The church campus includes a full-size gym, a commercial kitchen and classrooms, and a stage and a movie screen for entertainment. The church campus is known for its extensive education facilities, a large parking lot, even a window where people can see the activities inside. The gym building — a stage and a screen — is used for performances, such as concerts and theatrical productions. It is a place where people can come together and enjoy various events.

The congregation started to drift away in the past two years. Its membership at the time of Raak's installation was 160, and today it numbers 120. His number one goal at Trinity is to reach out to the people who have gone away, and to love them — to bring back some of those who have left.
Mini-conference to educate educators

Catholic educators will sponsor a mini-conference from 9 to 12:30 p.m., Feb. 25, at St. Thomas Catholic Church, 4319 W. 15th Ave., in the Liberty area.

Mary Ann King, a member of the university's "dine-in-earth" spirituality, will examine the spiritual life of each individual. The conference is open to all who wish to hear her presentation. There will be a small fee for the conference.

Gordon in his cell will meet with his congregation.

TJ ducks Decatur for second SPSL win

By GERADO BOLONG

Decatur's basketball team served as actual home team in a 75-73 squeaker over

Puyallup Tuesday afternoon at the High-line Community College pool, as the Raiders ducked cramp down on the Spartans and snatched a 75-73 win in their third league meeting of the season. The win avenged a 2-10 loss to the Spartans earlier in the year.

Spanish Lakes Activities Center. The

Rams, led by��ve-game winning streak, scored early and often on their way to the 18-point victory. The Rams came

Eagles jump up into third

The Federal Way boys' basketball team jumped back into playoff contention with a decisive, 48-30 win over the Decatur Rams, jumping them into a third-place tie in the South Puget Sound League North Division with the Spartans.

It's been a pleasant season so far for the Eagles, who had already won 13 games and three league contests. The Eagles have three league games remaining, and they'll be looking for a chance to climb above

third in the SPSL.

The Eagles' coach, Warren, is ecstatic about the Eagles' recent form. "We're on a good roll," he said. "We're playing good basketball, and we're feeling good.

We're ready to roll into the playoffs."

Warren was especially pleased with the Eagles' win over Decatur. "I thought it was the best defensive effort I've seen all season," he said. "We dominated the game from beginning to end."

The Eagles led the Rams from the first buzzer to the last, never giving Decatur

a chance to come back. "We played well on both ends of the court," Warren said.

"We scored when we wanted to, and we defended well when we had to."

The Eagles' defense helped lead them to a decisive win over Decatur. "Our defense was the key to our victory," Warren said.

"We held Decatur to only 30 points, and we scored 48 ourselves. That's the kind of game we need to play in the playoffs."

The Eagles' offense was also a key factor in their win. "Our offense was sharp,"

Warren said. "We had a balanced scoring attack led by Pete Adams, who scored 15 points. But we had four other players with at least 10 points, and that's what made the difference."

The Eagles' win over Decatur moved them into a third-place tie in the SPSL.

They'll face the Spartans in their next game, and Warren is looking forward to the challenge.

"I'm excited about this game," he said.

"We're playing well, and we're ready to take on the Spartans. We'll see what happens."
