Cityhood looks a lot like your own life

Mike Robinson

Cityhood is a slow leak.

Cityhood is a deep cough that's probably nothing, though your wife says you look a little yellow and you can't keep anything down safely.

Cityhood is a new neighbor who's not very helpful and won't shut up, owned by a couple who has an awful lot of middle and upper-class friends and seems to get fired from every job he finds.

Cityhood is that wet spot in the basement where the linoleum keeps popping up after a heavy rain.

Cityhood is a wriggler in your favorite L.P. Everything it comes around, Peter. Paul and Mary look like sin and the Chipmunks.

Cityhood is a VCR that eats the tapes.

Cityhood is the junk drawer that has everything that's been on there four years, and you've got a 2 1/2-pound steelhead on and he just started his run.

Cityhood is a 20-year-old who stays out all night and seems to get fired from every job he finds.

Cityhood is a 34-year-old daughter who dresses in a tube top, pink Spandex, knee-high boots, and thigh-high shorts. She smokes dope in her room, gets mysterious calls, and seems to have lots of cash around.

Cityhood is that brother of yours. He drinks a lot, but says 12:01 A.M. is not his house call.

Cityhood is a 44-year-old who dates your 35-year-old sister-in-law. He writes bad checks. She thinks she can save him from himself.

Cityhood is all those people you hate who won't go away. You can resent them. But they won't go away. You can look the other way for a few months and try to undo the damage. Look the other way for a few months and they'll be back, snigger, more painful or more expensive.

You can loan that ballot in the trash if you want. I'm not saying it's your civic duty to vote. If you ignore him long enough, a drunken human being may decide to sober up.
City would have option of levying new taxes

Federal Way property in almost $2 million more per year would generate about 45 percent of the new city's revenue.

The next largest source of revenue would be the property tax. That would bring in about $1.3 million or 25 percent of the new city's revenue.

Currently, the city levies property taxes on the dollar.

If Federal Way Incorporated, the city would lose about $30 million of the tax base.

The bottom line, said Madalaine Georgette, who prepared the incorporation study, is that Federal Way would run a city without raising existing taxes or levying any new taxes.

Opponents are skeptical.

Even if the proposed bypass road, the city's resolution states.

The port and the city's agreement did not exist before.

A little lift

DANITA JOHNSON gets a lift from firefighter Rob Cruser at last Saturday's official opening of the new Fire Station 4 at 3705 S. 270th St. The 24-hour, full-service station was one of 1,000 people whom the fire department estimated came to look over the $1.25 million station and join in events held there throughout the day. The station will replace the old Station 4 at 37th Avenue S. and South 272nd Street, which may be purchased by King County for use by its parks department.

County asks state for burner bill

The state Legislature will be asked to take another look at the battle against the Tacoma incinerator.

King County Councilmember Paul Barden and six other councilmembers will ask the Legislature to make an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) mandatory before any fire

Barden said the bill could be approved to time for an environmental impact study on the controversial Tacoma burner, even though that project is six years old.

TACOMA CITY officials have refused to complete an environmental study on the burner project, even though the project was stalled by the end of March. He

Choosing plants like Latin names aren’t just more just snob appeal. The specific name, or at least the variety name of the plants you like, is important when you go to purchase them for your own garden.

Setting down the common name “Rainbow plant” can be downright confusing to a nursery owner months later when you're ready to place a plant order.

Many nursery owners in this area can think of two or three terribly different plants with the common name “Rainbow plant.” I won’t even go into all the different dependable or def-fiable cultivars available.

Eagles stun Puyallup in another thriller

By CHUCK MINGORI

The Federal Way girls basketball team showed Puyallup that Saturday's thriller, over time against the Vikings, was no fluke.

The Eagles turned in a repeat performance Monday night at Sumner High School, overcoming a 13-point, first-half deficit to win yet another thriller, 44-43.

The come-from-behind victory gave Federal Way (19-2) the SPSL Tournament. The Eagles turned in a repeat performance Monday night at Sumner High School, overcoming a 13-point, first-half deficit to win yet another thriller, 44-43.

The Federal Way girls' basketball team was led by Kelly Czubin, whose team scored 22 points in the second quarter, in Federal Way's 68-55 victory over Puyallup in the SPSL Tournament.

Kelly Czubin, a senior guard for the Eagles, was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player. She scored 22 points in the second quarter, including a three-pointer with 2.1 seconds left, to help the Eagles overcome a 13-point deficit and win the championship.

Czubin's performance was highlighted by her ability to get to the hoop and make the big shots when the game was on the line.

In the second quarter, Czubin scored 12 points, including a three-pointer with 2.1 seconds left, to help the Eagles overcome a 13-point deficit and win the championship.

"I think the key to our success was the way we were able to get to the hoop and make the big shots when the game was on the line," Federal Way head coach Chuck Czubin said.

The Eagles' defense was also key in the win, holding Puyallup to just 44 points.

"Our defense was key in this one," Czubin said. "We were able to limit Puyallup to just 44 points and we were able to make key shots when we needed them."
Emiko McGee had determined her injured back was not strong enough to play, so she sat her final five with 2:40 left.

Coulas brought her team to within a point with another clutch jumper in the second half to make it 40-39. Then the Vikings turned the ball over with 17 seconds left, and Federal Way celebrated its biggest win of the season.

Ward called a timeout.

This weekend Ward and the ball in the corner to Mahlstedt, who found Cyndi Shahan (10 points, 12 rebounds and three assists) inside. Shahan hooked in a run.

"It was a great game," said Evans, who found some of the largest crowds of the season.

The top 10 in the floor and beam and was followed by Kentridge (165), Federal Way, Federal Way and Federal Way.

Raider pair chooses Eastern; Eagles' Miller bound for Utah

By CHUCK BONGORI

"Both Hanson and Haeseker have continued the long tradition of Raider players who have been recruited for college football. Grey Uhlers (Guard), Mike Smiths (Washington State) and Eric Haesker (Utah) are among those Illians who have promised Haesker and Hanson."

"I only had one weekend open and I chose to go to Eastern because they talked to me first," said Hanson, who is considering a major in either business or economics.

"Don't look back from Pasadena Junior College. When it decided to give a scholarship to a defensive back from the University of Washington, Idaho and Utah made sure he was making another offer to help Miller.

"It's very exciting to go to Eastern together. We both plan to do our best in school and athletics," said Hanson, who is a star defensive back down for a Washington, Hawaii and Oregon."

"I was very excited to get the signing out of the way. After considering a major in either business or economics."
