Council's mission: Street Talk: What is the world’s most serious environmental problem?

Letters

Daryl Lyngard (Retired)

"Dogs, because they're just part of the problem. It's raising some of the world's people's lives from nothing that has happened."

Grace King (Sales Consultant)

"Pollution and destruction of the rain forest, because of the overall effect they have on the world's ecosystem."

Shannon Turnard (Housewife)

"People's negligence. People are rather careless about their waste and they don't care how they dispose of it."

Jeff Yarroll (Restaurant Employee)

"The nuclear fusion problem. Flamethrow. The storage of it (nuclear waste), possible contamination of the environment around it, the enrichment unit not being built and testing, ever time."

Vickie Lewis (Dental Hygienist)

"The way they transport the oil. Recently, we've had an explosion. That just really seems to be damaging the countryside."

Guest Opinion

By Bill Frank, Jr.

"A Time of Gathering" is an exhibit on the heritage of all Indians that will be held April 1 to Oct. 1.

City Hall is a credit to many who cared

Letters

Mark McMillian (Camp Store Manager)

"Lastly, I've been more aware of the need to, you know, do something worthwhile for people instead of just sitting around and doing nothing."

Tami Hale (Lake Lake)

"We do our best to make sure that the Native people in the area are happy and proud to be a part of the state."

Scott Pierce (Unemployed)

"To clean up our environment, that's the best thing they could possibly do. It's just not something that we can do."

Suzanne Elmore (Dental Hygienist)

"The past 200 years, the Indian people have been subject to a lot of discrimination."

Centennial will include Indian history

There is considerable concern among the people of the Federal Way School District, not only among the students, but also among the parents, that the Indian people have not been subject to a lot of discrimination.

Keeping up the good work

For decades of years before there was a state of Washington, the land now in the state was home to the Indian people. They lived in a way that conserved natural resources, like the salmon and the beechnuts, and the Indian people's lives were good times.

As a Centennial commission member, I believe that this is an important area to focus on. The exhibit is being created by the Burke Museum at the University of Washington. Indian staff members, contractors, artists, and volunteers are working on the project.

Ancient art forms, some removed from Washington hundreds of years ago, will return to museums around the globe. The exhibit will be held April 1 to Oct. 1.

Many Indian people are taking advantage of the opportunity to present their culture, to correct misinformation and bias, and to give a voice to the Indian people of the state.

For information about activities involving Indian heritage, contact the Centennial Commission, 111 W. 21st Ave., Olympia, WA 98501.

Bill Frank, Jr. is a member of the Nez Perce tribe, well-known in the state for his work on behalf of Washington tribal rights. He is chairman of the Northwest Indian Fishermen's Commission.

Also, some Federal Way residents may get fluoridated water when Tacoma's Pipeline 5 project begins to operate in 1992. The water is from the Green River.

The pipeline has been delayed by environmental activists and Federal Way Water and Sewer Department's role in the decision. The project is a part of the green river pipeline head works. That means at least some Federal Way residents will get fluoridated water even though they never voted on the issue.

Jenkins, who was a leader in the anti-fluoridation movement, said the petition drive will start within the next couple weeks in Tacoma and other areas of Washington state that have banned fluoridation.

A man suspected of driving a Federal Way convenience store had a gun. The store had been the scene of a police chase.

Vincent Jenkins, 31, of Kent, was arrested early Monday morning at Harborview Medical Center, where he was treated for a gunshot wound to the head after the two met at a Midway area man, who was robbed and shot to death.

Merchants reap benefits of Final Four frenzy

By BY BECKY KRAMER

As the Final Four madness hit this weekend, merchants in the Seattle area were reaping the benefits of the fan excitement. The NCAA, the organizing body of college basketball, was expected to generate $25 million in revenue, with most of it going to the host city.

In a statement, Jim Myers, Director of the Seattle NCAA committee, said, "The whole hotel is basically sold out. We're closing the books on this because we're doing so well." The hotel is hosting the Duke University team, and the games are expected to draw a large crowd.

The hotel lobby was filled with faculty and fans from across the country. They were buying souvenirs, such as T-shirts and hats, at a rate of $50 per item. The hotel also offered a $70 special for a four-night stay, including breakfast.

Tomlinson, a local business owner, said, "We're seeing a lot of people from out-of-town, and they're spending a lot of money. It's a great opportunity for us." He added that the hotel's booking was already full, and that many other local businesses were also reaping the benefits of the Final Four.

"We expect to be busy — we're in the midst of the hotel's booking," said Daniels. "We're seeing a lot of people spending a lot of money, and it's a great opportunity for us." He added that the hotel's booking was already full, and that many other local businesses were also reaping the benefits of the Final Four.

Texas family follows sports, selling souvenirs

By BY BECKY KRAMER

The Cariotis family from Dallas, Texas, has become one of the nation's top souvenirs vendors. They sold their first souvenir, a T-shirt, for $10 last summer for a convention, and have been selling souvenirs at major sporting events ever since.

The family sells souvenirs at the Dallas Hilton in New Year's Day and went to Miami for the Super Bowl. They had a special trip to Florida, and brought along his daughter, Anne-Marie, 19 and son, Nick, 14, to help sell.

"We started this business last fall, and it's been a hit," said Steve Morris, who runs the family business. "We'm seeing a lot of people spending a lot of money, and it's a great opportunity for us." He added that the hotel's booking was already full, and that many other local businesses were also reaping the benefits of the Final Four.

Tomlinson with Sunset Life was not the correct name of the company. It should be Tomlinson with Sunset Life Insurance Company.

Businesses should not be affiliated with that company, but it is affiliated with the Sunset Life Insurance Company.

The 38th District Republican Party urged all interested Republicans to become precinct captains. The party also encouraged the residents of Sunset Life to sign up for voter registration services.

Decatur nine drops opener to Rams, 7-2

The Decatur baseball team got the opening — but little else — in a 7-2 South Puget Sound League-opening loss to Rogers Wednesday at South Sound Park.

Bradly Nelson provided the pitching, but the Rams scored runs in the bottom of every inning but one, then put the game out of reach with a two-out rally in the fifth.

Rogers’ Shannon Hinkle got the win with plenty of help at a Nelson helm, opening the game and the season with a hit and a score and striking out five batters in 3 innings.

“Decatur didn’t have a good day,” said TJ tennis coach Dave Kessler. “We’re hoping to do some time to play outdoors.”

Catching was pretty talented team,” said TJ tennis coach Dave Kessler. “We’re hoping to do some time to play outdoors.”

“Teams are still in the same boat as the starting lineup, but I think we’re doing a couple more good things,” said Rogers’ Scott Vaught. “We’re hoping to get the ball in the bag again.”

The Gators made it to third on a Nelson single, then scored on an error.

“Unfortunately, we had a couple errors in the bottom of the inning, but Nelson struck out the side in the sixth,” said Rogers’ manager Chris Moore.

“Decatur first base coach Laron Rougeard argued the call, but to no avail,” said Rogers’ manager Chris Moore.

“The strategy was still in the same boat as the starting lineup, but I think we’re doing a couple more good things. We’re hoping to get the ball in the bag again.”

LET'S WORK TOGETHER"
A-U Sunday, April 2, 1989 The News

U — loves a good cake. Now decorate it with an artist's touch and you have a cake they won't soon forget. Which is why Safeway serves up more decorated cakes for more occasions. Whatever the interest, you'll find a cake designed and decorated to fit the event. Like delicious birthday cakes for the kids brightened by the faces of their childhood characters. Or take a shot at a golfing cake for Dad and a tennis cake for Mom. Each cake a work of art ready to be eaten. Traveling or going into business? Start the trip off right with a cake from Safeway, where the cakes are baked fresh using only the finest ingredients...pure cream...fresh butter. Shoot for the moon in your life and we'll put a moon on your cake. After all, shouldn't everyone have their cake and eat it, too?

ICE CREAM is the perfect match with your cake and Safeway has the perfect ice cream, Lucerne Premium Light or Gourmet Ice Cream in many assorted flavors.

SAFEWAY COUPON VALUE

$2 OFF On Any Custom Decorated Sheet Cake, $4 or Larger.
