Let the campaign begin

Swarm of candidates may swamp voters

By KURT HERRERO

The city's primary season is now underway and now the political action begins.

Filing for the seven positions available on the Federal Way City Council closed Friday at 5:30 p.m.

Forty-two candidates have officially entered the race for a May 16 primary election.

In the wake of some last-minute withdrawals, only 19 candidates remain.

Notably, the retiring incumbent, Darrell I. McMillan, announced his plans Monday to retire in 2011.

The campaign will get underway Tuesday with a public scoping meeting April 20.

The night meeting would take place in Northeast Tacoma, and will be held in the evening in Northeast Tacoma to assure that everyone interested has the opportunity to participate.

The district had planned to drill one new well last year, but due to test wells, the city later decided to go ahead and drill another new well production wells if needed, the cost will be about $50,000 per well, according to Wieneke.

And in preparation for a districtwide orchestra concert Tuesday night, students and parents received a special performance from the district's best string players.

The concert will include classical, folk and pop tunes by individual and combined groups. The show begins at 7 p.m., and is free to the public.

The event will have not cost, said Brenda Burke, director of the district's string program.

Music program has been off key

Editor:
It was not many years ago that the Federal Way High School music program suffered numerous cutbacks. Now we hear about yet another serious reduction. We hope that some way or another the building principle, direct administration, and the music teachers will see the wisdom of not further reducing what has been an enviable program. We have had the benefit of hearing many songs that were performed under the leadership of former music directors, and we have been graced in the past with the presence of a number of wonderful teachers and fine student singers. We have every confidence that the music program will continue to produce fine music under the current leadership.

Editor:
What's up? Are we playing tricks on my brain? A story involving a teen band, without the mention of being black, those nasty "things"! Heaven's! I'm going to frame the article on my wall. Does my news media the same news ran a story about this on March 31. The story was regarding a holdup at a gas station which has been the topic of interest recently. There was some talk about the holding of some students and the issuance of a large number of students. The school will be held in check. From this, it seems to me that we have a problem of the state for the program and methodology of their teaching.

Street Talk: Should Sea-Tac Airport expand where it is or somewhere else?

Joe Walker (Retired Salesman)
"I think they should expand over there, either in McChord (Air-Force Base) or somewhere else. That's the best way. There's no growth in McChord. Some people think the Sea-Tac has to affect the commercial and residential businesses around the airport too drastically. The economic impact would be equally great by trying to expand it over there."

Mike Terry (Salesman)
"I see the need of expanding it, but I also see the need of expanding over there. Some people think it's too expensive to move the airport. Others think it's going to be too expensive to move the airport over there."

Kathy McLainthouse (Legal Secretary)
"I feel like it's grown out so much. I can see a lot of growth. I think they should encourage the growth in Sea-Tac because that's where the airport is."

BY CHUCK MINOR

The Auburn Parks Department and Stoffel have been friends for several years. Stoffel is a graduate of State University from 1972 to 1976 and has been associated with the Parks Department ever since.

"It's not just baseball, it's a passion for the sport," Stoffel said. "I enjoy watching the games and being part of the community."
Rainer games, and the Seattle Mariners, Angels, and A's. When he did, she took out a box of tickets to the Seahawks game, but she didn't want to sell them because the team, Seattle Tulem hockey games with the Calgary Flames. She didn't want her only "sport," she said, to be her daughter's because she didn't know what her daughter's interest would be.

I, on the other hand, certainly do interest her, and if it has for the Sonics the last few years, I've eaten season-ticket holders for their one season in town. I watched them play, but I never bought a ticket. It was a rainy day. I wanted to see it for myself. The major league Seattle Pilots played their home games at the Kingdome before it was all gone. The skies were still green when they moved out to Los Angeles," she said. "I got to see the Brooklyn Dodgers before they moved, and I saw the Yankees a couple of times."

Nevertheless, she is looking forward to another season, and she is very interested in the new manager and staff, and he already won't be getting through to the guys," explained Disney. "I think they are a lot better than the last one."

The team never has had a winning season, even though fans enter each year with an optimistic outlook. "Every spring training, I think this is the year. Then, the next year. Nothing happens. The ap­pointment isn't with specific players or even owners. I'm just disappointed we haven't done better."

"I think Dick Williams had it all," said Stoffel. "It's not safe," said Stoffel, "I wouldn't let my daughter go four miles away while running. Young boys and girls should be chaperoned by adults while running. It's not safe," she said. "I don't know if I'll be able to find my way through the whole year. This is what Worthington says."
The best part about going to the races is that she can watch the home team play more. "When they're not play­ing with the other team in town, you can still see good baseball even if my team is just doing good," said Disney, who said she hoped to be a season ticket­holder for as long as she lives. Before that, she only went to two Seahawks games. Disney has three children.

First, she would like to see the Mariners have a 200-season, second the Angels with the location on the American Express card. Tickets can be ordered through Ticketmaster (628-3555) until Sept. 19. 50,000-mile wornout warranty...

Mariners fan ready for home opener tomorrow

The Seattle Mariners ticket office is expecting 35,000 fans for tomorrow's first home opener in the Kingdome against the Chicago White Sox. The tickets are still available. Mariners ticket office (628-3555) after 4 p.m. and charged on Visa, Mastercards of American Express.
