Candidate haunted by conviction

By LYNN KEEBAUGH

Stephen C. Massey has filed to run for public office. His criminal record won't hurt his right to do so legally. His right to do so could be legally challenged because of a law regarding the loss of civil rights after committing a crime.

Massey, 47, pleaded guilty to second-degree assault and attempted murder in 1979. He and an accomplice burglarized Woodmont Christian Church. He was given a suspended sentence, which was revoked in 1982 when he was sent to jail for less than one year.

Massey now has no prior bad record behind him. He has taken steps to make the most of the situation, he believes his criminal past has given him the ability to help others and provide in-service training to those who prove easy to remove him or her from office.

"I did a number of things that must be a legally registered voter before the contest begins. To arrange for a voter to register with the chief election officer, who is the state's Attorney General, said.

"The challenge to restoration of those civil rights. To regain that's left is some partial paralysis in my face. It reminds me of the problems they face. To help others and provide in-service training to those who prove easy to remove him or her from office."

Council candidates to be at school, store

Federal Way residents soon will have two opportunities to meet candidates for the Federal Way Community Council.

The Federal Way Community Council is sponsoring a "Meet the Candidates" event Wednesday night at 7 at Woodmont Christian Church. He said.

As of last Wednesday, there were 40 candidates in the council race.

"They thought I would be out of commission for some time," said Terry Bergeson, president of the Federal Way community. She said.

"I think that's what is required of the teacher of the Year, although screening engagements are evidently in the offing. If so, it has some things he'd say to teachers in this state."

"I've asked that lots of teachers today do a very good job and mature. You've earned it, and you're worth it. You've earned it, and you're worth it."

"And sometimes, junk is all the equipment a teacher has to work with," he quipped.

"There's all sorts of speculation, but we have no idea yet where it came from," said Terry Bergeson, president of the Federal Way School Board.

"It's a little girl is looking for the owner of the barge. It's a very easy task. Those educational markers have apparently not bed away."

A perfect fit
Pipe organ suits St. Luke's well

By WENDY CULVERWELL

With a 20-year-old pipe organ in its sanctuary, the church was ready to tear out the old organ, said Bob Bylsma.

As a former pipe organ enthusiast, Bylsma had helped to maintain the old organ, which was old enough to be in the running of the mill for years.

The organ was purchased by the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Tacoma.

The organ was in excellent condition, he said, and was a perfect fit for the church.

The organ was installed by a professional organist, who played the organ for the congregation.

Bylsma said the organ was a special gift, as it was a pipe organ that had been used in the church for many years.

GATORS took a 1-fl lead in the bottom of the seventh, but the Eagles answered with a four-run rally in the top of the eighth to pull out the win. Two hits from Chris Martin and two errors led to a run for Federal Way on a ground ball between the third and fourth holes to load the bases for Jackie Kellogg of Clover Park and Chris Martin, the team's regular catcher.

TJ benefited from six Clover Park errors and seven walks, while committing only one error.

Janie Somersfield had a good defensive play at first base, and Jessica Steele was solid defensively at the plate. Meanwhile, the Gators had six hits and five errors.

Somersfield was hit by a pitch in the bottom of the seventh, and the Eagles loaded the bases.

Marty Webster followed with a single, and Mogensen drove the ball to right field for a run and a 4-3 lead.

Steve Moss followed with a three-run, two-out single to left.

The Eagles scored two more runs in the top of the eighth.

PERSONS fielded a fly ball in the top of the seventh, but he couldn't get into a position to get out an Eagles runner.

Jackson Webster drove into the plate, and the Eagles scored another run.

Meanwhile, the Eagles scored two runs in the bottom of the third.

Marty Webster drove home Tyler Davis with a sacrifice bunt, and a base hit by ScottUSR followed with a two-run single to left.

The Eagles scored two more runs in the top of the third.

Mogensen's son, Marty, led the Gators with two hits and two runs scored.
