by KURT HERZOG

The surprising role of the Federal Way Fire Station 73 in the town of Federal Way is something that has been overlooked by many people. The station was originally constructed to serve as a fire station, but over time it has evolved into a multi-functional facility that serves the community in a variety of ways.

In addition to its primary function of providing fire and emergency services, the station also serves as a community resource center. It hosts a range of events and programs, including meetings, workshops, and community gatherings. The station is also a popular spot for community organizations to hold events.

The station's role in the community is further enhanced by its location. It is located near a number of major thoroughfares, including the Cocopah Highway, and serves as a central hub for emergency services in the area. This makes it an ideal location for community events and programs.

The station's role as a community resource center is a testament to the commitment of the Federal Way Fire Department to serving the community in a variety of ways. It is a perfect example of how a fire station can be a valuable asset to the community, providing a range of services and programs that benefit the local residents.

Split vision Role of city team debated

by LYNN KEEBAUGH

The controversial role of the City of Federal Way's city team, which is responsible for hiring consultants and making recommendations to the council, has been a source of debate in the community. The city team was established in part because of the city council's desire to hire outside experts to provide guidance and direction on issues facing the city.

Some members of the city team, including Pearl Davis, have been criticized for their role in the city's decision to hire consultants. Davis resigned about three weeks ago, citing concerns about the team's effectiveness and the need for more transparency in the decision-making process.

Other members of the city team, including Bill Selfert, have defended the team's work, arguing that it has been successful in providing valuable insights and recommendations to the council. The city council has ultimately made the decision to hire consultants, and the city team is expected to continue its work.

JOHN HOLLAND proudly displays his radio-controlled car, "Intrepid." The body took six hours to paint. Holland and fellow members of SARCAR (Seattle Area Radio Control Auto Racers) will compete in the Evergreen 500 Sunday at Surprise Lake Shopping Center on Meridian Avenue North.

Holland said the race is not a "point" race, meaning it doesn't count in SARCAR's annual tally of wins. "It's just a fun day," he said.

Holland said he began tinkering with radio-controlled cars for the pure pleasure of it, but found radio control has turned into "an obsession," he said. "I'm finally starting to enjoy sitting out here and tinkering.

Area booters named to All-News team

By CHEF MINGO

Jefferson has dominated the All-News team in recent years, and its 1989 selection was no surprise. The Eagles finished with a 14-3-2 record, after being bumped out of the state quarterfinals. The Raiders were 14-3-2. Decatur was next with 15 and Federal Way also is the case on the 1989 All-News.

As experienced Northwest charter operators, we offer bareboat charters require, of course, that, you know something about boating before you even think of getting a sailboat. If you don't know how to handle a sailboat, you can always rent one from the rental agencies, and they will give you a complete lesson in sailboat handling. The best approach is to learn in a small or medium-sized boat, and then graduate to larger boats - but not from the charter companies.

Legionnaires boost season mark to 5-0

By TOM CLINTON

The Peninsula West American Legion baseball team defeated Bellevue Mi., 7-4, in the season opener Tuesday, the win put the District 12, 5-0 on the season and its 6-0 at-large.

The Great Eastern Center entry entered an at-netch Roosevelt double play to cement the win only 2:20 minutes before the lights at the Bellevue stadium ran out automatically.

The center is imposed because of a new quandrant complex in the region and the lines in the right field.
