Hot Dog Children's Theatre to present 'Puss in Boots'

The dream has continued off and on over the years. A COUPLE OF summers ago, Hart said, "we ran a working overnight camp for kids in the old Fort Drum branch in Auburn. The camp covered everything from commercial to Shakespeare," he said. "If you're for all those who believe in one soup camp," he added.

NELSON, Hart and other local performers who have been involved with the Avenue Act I for years, are hoping that the Puss in Boots will be a popular show. They have a way of connecting the avenue's broad audience and desire to produce quality children's theater in the area and give kids themselves the opportunity to perform on stage. The Avenue Act I always has been interested in children's theater, said Nelson. "I think the production we did was the first effort," she added. "We have a long dream of "Puss,"" he said.

After the show, however, children will get the chance to see the puppeteers and make maps of their own in a workshop the morning of the show. The performance begins at 9:30 a.m.

Tickets are $5 per person. For more information, call the museum at 454-1030.

Bible Quiz competition prepares boy for ministry

By WENDY CULVERWELL

"For the beginning of work on the church, we will have a free offer of the Bible as well," Darlene said.

"We'd like to see other local churches take it up and expand the scope of area competition," she said.

Bob's mother said she would give him a few days at vacation before hitting him with his study plans.

"It's very serious," she explained, adding that "she wouldn't push him to excel if he wasn't interested in Bible quizzing. Like most kids his age, he wants to be when he grows up," she said. "He's already preparing for what he wants to be when he grows up."

"Bob attended Colonial Christian and Rolls and because the Federal Way District offers weekly Bible study materials have arrived.

"No one expected him to go so far — he's so young and he's never done it before," Darlene said.

Because there is so much material to quizzing, Bible quizzing is an important part of Bob's life, his mother said. She coaches him, "But he's a hard worker and doing well at the competition, but the Washington team did place first overall."

"One expected him to go so far — he's so young and she's never done it before," Darlene said.

Robert, agree that they have an unusual son. Darlene said that many of those rare people of whom people think. Robert confides that he's known for four years of the Bible Quiz team.

Harris gets school board approval and a pay raise

By MELISSA STEINER

In an unexpected move, the Federal Way School Board raised Harris’ salary and gave her a promotion.

The school board had earlier reviewed Harris’ performances as district boss, also in an executive session.

The evaluation standards were set by the school board and Harris when she was hired here in August 1988.

Harris also recently fulfilled a major part of her contract, which stipulates that she must be a Federal Way Regional Manager, moved from the Pierce County home to the Federal Way, south school district.

The school district’s policies required her to administer salaries, reviewing job descriptions and salaries, and keeping some salaries fit. All school principals receive a 1 percent pay raise, and about 16 percent of their assistants are paid less than $20,000.

Besides his newly approved $75,000 salary, Harris received $75,000 for medical and dental insurance. He is allowed $100 per month for area travel expenses, and long-distance trips are approved by the school board.

Harris and the raise is part of the superintendent’s salary survey for surrounding districts. School lunch prices are going up

Inflation and last summer's drought in the Midwest are being blamed for the coming price increases in the price of meals at Federal Way schools.

Mary Gallier, director of district food services, says the prices for elementary school breakfasts and lunches have not been raised in eight years. Meal prices in junior highs and high schools have not increased in four.

In the meantime, she said, the prices of bread and paper products have soared ahead of meal prices here. Food prices have increased 10 percent and paper products 24 percent this past year. In addition, the Midwest drought will play havoc with the fruit and vegetable market, Gallier said.

The result is the following price hikes for elementary school meals:

- Breakfasts, from $0.40 to $0.50.
- Lunches, from $1 to $1.10.
- Reduced-price breakfasts, from 30 cents to 40 cents.
- Reduced-price lunches, from $1.25 to $1.75.
- Staff lunches will go from $1.50 to $1.35.
