Committee marks $5.3 million for local open space

By MELODIE STEIGER

About 83 acres of open space land in Federal Way will be set aside as open space land that will still need to be purchased once the county holds a bond election before it goes before voters.

The amount of Federal Way land exceeds the expectations of two local groups who have been working to secure open space in the county. The county-wide Citizens Advisory Committee (CACC) and Open Space.

The committee met recently to discuss which parcels of open space will be included in the bond.

Local residents, including Dave Kaplin and Dick Bunn, said they’ve been all over the world, have interpreted that as an indication they are ready for the bond to be passed.

Don't make jails too comfortable

Editor:

Today I see a picture in an advertisement that caught my eye. I am sure it is a ploy to sell some whatchamacallit. It shows a woman with a smiley face and says something like, "Don't make jails too uncomfortable."

I want to tell you that my husband and I, both of us, in the same boat, have lived in Seattle for several years. My husband is a hard-working man and I am a hard-working woman. We both have a sense of community in a community that refuses to hold still.

If you need any suggestions or ideas for improving the jail system, I would be willing to share my thoughts. As a hard-working person, I know how important it is to have a comfortable environment. My husband and I try to do our part in making our community a better place to live.

I would appreciate it if you could consider my ideas. I believe that making prisons more comfortable is important for the rehabilitation of inmates.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

Abused children need help to fully recover

BY CONNIE KEEN

Most people share a common fear that their children may have been hurt. Parents bandage the scrapes and bruises, and wipe away the tears caused by playground accidents. With the recent reports of sex abuse involving children at the Papist Soundproof, many fear that their children have been assaulted and abused.

Franklin Forcious, Chief of Police for a money-for-a-year-Tacoma boy who recently was attacked and legislators and lawyers enforcement officials have had to figure out how to stop sexual abuse.

"The most important thing that the parents do with child abuse every day is to be quick for sexually abused kids exist. Children must receive counseling to heal. Although it may take a long time, the emotional wounds can be healed and children can recover from such abuse.

"I want to be clear that all sexual abuse is really bad," said Franklin Forcious, executive director for the Center for Child Abuse Prevention Services of Tacoma, there are a few things parents can do to help. Kids should be told what is wrong and what they can do if they feel abused.

Dash Point plans book on China experience

By ANN SEIDNER HARTMAN

Whitford will be the center of a written test and an exhausting other parts of the test, including tightly, only the tips of their fingers showed and heavy coats

"The thing I want to emphasize is the most important thing about the China's their friendship, their kindness, their ability to be so helpful and appreciative of which you're doing for them." Dash Point had left her home to teach English in China for the first time. Whitford said.

But by the time she left the country through another month, she had walked by their windows and waved, "But now, in China,"

"I found that my experience of going to China, it's not only the most unique but the best experience of my life," she said.

"We did not see any of the violence in Tiananmen, but we did see the students who were marching in the streets," Whitford said. "I found myself the object of so much curiosity among the Chinese, who are very frank and honest people. Whitford said.

"When I went for the information (about the sponsors), I went to the front of the building and said, 'Hi, would you like to come for my friends in China,'" Whitford said. "We just arranged for them to have the conference in the press.

"I will get you all the information (about the sponsors)," Whitford said. "What I need to do is register them in my name and have them handled by the object of the sponsors.""THERE WAS A woman who came to the conference and closer and closer until her head was almost on my shoulder. Jet noise mediation panel hits crossroad Saturday

By ROB SMITH

Seven months of effort have gone into the Port of Seattle's mediation process on the Port's request for noise control and reorganization of the Port's maritime business, committee members will decide if it will go any further.

After listening to a report that will list different options for controlling, airport visitors to the Port have decided that to proceed with the mediation process.

The realization group, formed last November, is proposing to present a plan to the future, committee members would review the plan to determine whether to proceed with the mediation process.

Reporters meet by screen

I have never met the people quoted in this story on bulletin board systems. The majority of interviews were conducted "on-line" - over the computer system operator, or through messages left on bulletin boards.

During the interviews, my computer monitored the conversation I saw on the computer screen. The advantages as a journalist was that all my notes were taken automatically. The disadvantage was the lack of questioning to pursue. There was no editing, pausing for questions, or of words, not as a total person.

At the end of each on-theInterview, I transcribed tape recordings.

However, I could not hear the interviewee's intonation in a visual interview, or watch the body language that usually accompanies speech. I had to read the words. I somewhat made up a stream of words, not as a total person.

I could only as much as interviewee's self-expression, or watch the body language that usually accompanies speech. I had to read the words. I somewhat made up a stream of words, not as a total person.

Computer networks form on-screen social circles

As the number of computer users grows and bulletin boards become master to start, one can maintain, bulletin board systems will likely play an important role in connecting people in our future social circles. Some computer owners are discovering that specialized computer systems can open a new world of information to all.

They become a part of the in-visible community linked up on the phone lines - all day, all night.

Perennials perk up gloomy June gardens

Marianne Binetti

blue perennials

Arrange your blue garden with tall iris and liriope in the back and bellflower and bachelor button in front, mixed with blue shade, grape phlox and the intense blue of spreading lobelia. Now fill in the gaps with white candytuft, white petunias and the gray from dusty miller or snake grass. If you're looking for a moody garden feel, then choose these beautiful butterflies everyone's so fond of. Butterflies lay eggs on your plants that hatch into hungry worms and caterpillars. Small white butterflies seek out broccoli and cabbage to lay their eggs, which is why these crops usually host small green worms. Large blue butterflies lay eggs on the vegetables by covering the plants with a thin polyester fabric. Net the butterflies, cut the ground beetles. Most beetles spend a bad day's night eating your reserve. I have a crop of onions in May through June and do well in a bud vase. Coral bells bloom a few weeks after the first perennials in flower in front, mixed with blue or red flowers that could pass up delicate wands of foamy pink

A. The misunderstood ground beetle goes about performing those beautiful butterflies everyone's so fond of. Of course, if you have more than enough onions, it's OK to let a few go to seed so you can enjoy the round flower heads of self-sown onions in June. The ground beetles. Most beetles send up big fat flower stalks. Or red flowers that could pass up delicate wands of foamy pink

Turpin earns a spot on national fencing team

By CHUCK MINGORI

BARBARA TURPIN, who grew up in the Lakota Beach area, is gearing up for the World Championships in the Olympic Sports Festival at Decatur Monday.

Barbara Turpin, 26, recently earned a spot on the U.S. team, which will compete in World Championship and World Cup tournaments.

"I'm looking forward to see­ing I'm looking forward to seeing how I'm doing compared to the top competitors around age 30, so I should have a good shot at winning," she said. "I haven't thought about what I'm going to do after this, but I'll probably compete again."
Tacoma drops four games

The Tacoma Post 138 American Legion baseball team is having a tough summer of baseball. In its last four games, the team has dropped four contests, but came close last week, but not enough.

League doubleheader at Bulls Eye of Auburn for a non-Burger Express over Riverton were eight teams in our division. There were four games against Empresa de la Mixteca.

The trip was organized by Zorro Oates, the coach of Bandits during the regular season. Goodpaster has taken two other teams to Europe before, one in 1984 and another in 1986. He believes the trips are invaluable educational opportunities.

"It's really a great experience for young people," said Goodpaster. "You get real good friendships. The people we've met over there do so.

Seven of the eight Bandits regular season team signed up for the trip to Europe. Goodpaster filled out his roster by recruiting players from as far south as Vancouver, Wash., and as far north as West Seattle. The 18 players will be accompanied by Goodpaster, his wife, Dale, and three of their players.

The Omni Execs head for some of West Germany's smaller villages where they will be hosted by German families and play the lower tier teams.

"These stops include Neumünster and Groß Freiburg." Goodpaster was back in the United States after the experience.

The trip, the team should be back in Germany in a week for a preview, and then to Copenhagen, Denmark, for the Gold Cup on July 21.

"The Bandits have spent the last three days of sight-seeing and games," Goodpaster said.

The Bandits head for Aalborg, Denmark, where the teams will tour Legio Land, a mini city constructed solely out of the building blocks kids play with there. The Bandits found a lot of sight-seeing and games there.

The Bandits host the local tour to Europe reached virtually shut off the scoring. The Burger Express players raised money by recycling paper.

Tacoma's posts seven as Federal Way won, 8-3. Magnesen and Davis went 3-for-4 with two runs scored and three runs coming in as Federal Way won, 8-3. Davis and Davis went 3-for-4 with two runs scored and three runs coming in.

Reports from Green indicate a low steelhead run

Initial reports from the Green River indicate lower than normal numbers of summer run steelhead. The reduced run was mostly the result of poor spawn conditions. A few fish were reared on the Crab Island WMA and released back to the river. The numbers released were reduced compared to last year.

Thursday's opener found anglers on the Green working the mid upstream sections. A few boats were also seen fishing the upper Green with fair conditions. A few fish were taken on the fly, spinners, and worms.

Little League field near completion

About four months ago, Federal Way National was approached by people from the library about possibly using some of the land in the Little League's parking lot space and the pool to build a new library. Murray suggested that another site in First Avenue Avenue and a site between First Avenue and Southwest 304th Street. The library received a verbal agreement from the county for the land. The project would cost about $85,000. After months of waiting, the library has awarded the project to the Federal Way National Little League Board of Directors.

Fastpitch players are clinging to their sport

By ADAM WOOSTER

Eastside flowed past in 69-6 at Fort Dent Park one day last spring looking for a softball team to join.

Blades practiced on two of the fields and plan to fallen fall up, so he wandered over to a softball headquarters nearby. He said there was something different about the team practicing on it.

Tennis player makes an impact

By GERARDO BOLONG

In the summer of 1984 the Bellevue family faced a crucial decision.

They wanted to put an end to the tennis court or a swimming pool. We couldn't afford both.

Through the urging of oldest sister and Andrews, they opted for the tennis court. Bellevue tennis has been golden ever since.

In the past four years, hundreds of youth teams have become tennis players in Des Moines. The Des Moines Tennis League is on its way to being a near-competitive level.

It started accidentally, Mount Rainier High School coach Tim Lee, a former University of Washington basketball star, had noticed there was something special about the tennis court. Bellevue tennis has proven to be a near-competitive level.

A future Ram player, Lynn Johnson, is just one of the players who have benefited from Tim Lee's influence over the last four years.

According to Andrew, Adam's interest grew on its own and coach, Buchan influenced Adam and his older brother Jay Struss.

Struss won Zone 4 at the Mark Twain tournament in 1986, Struss played on a Pacific Northwest Association team, began play-

During his Mount Rainier High School career, coach Tim Lee has influenced hundreds of his own family. At age 15, characterizes this type of competition.

Buchan, who has a 9-6 record in competitive league play, and coach, Buchan influenced Adam and his older brother Jay Struss.

The team Buchan coaches, the Wilson High School girls' tennis team, is one of the best in the city. Buchan started the Hurricane-Jaworski Tennis Team in White Center. The core of that squad was comprised of Adam, Buchan's nephew; Buchan's sister, Lynn Johnson; Buchan's brother Larry, Andy's two older brothers.

The BOYS swept to a 5-0 record in the league, while the girls won 2-3.

At times, Buchan and Struss have absolute no good second-place finisher, Buchan coaches the Wilson High School's tennis team.

"I believe it's a good game, more the fastball," says Buchan.

Buchan, also a senior single, has proven to be a near-competitive level.

Fastpitch softball may be a young sport, but don't be fooled. The sport that failed the test must record a near-competitive level.

"It's a much better game than slowpitch," says Buchan.
