Goodwill Games tickets are available tomorrow

Goodwill Games organizers expect ticket sales to be brisk as ticket buyers come to terms with the $10,000 price tag. The games officially open July 18.

It's a major challenge for the organizers to sell as many tickets as possible. The games will last for 21 days and will feature a variety of sports and events. The event includes swimming, diving, cycling, tennis, and more. The games will be held in Seattle and will feature athletes from around the world.

Tickets will be available at www.ggw.com and at ticket agencies in the area. The tickets will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis. The games will be held from July 18 to August 7, 1990.

Residents turn out in force to hear council candidates

By KURT HERBERG

If the attendance at a Federal Way City Council candidates' forum Thursday is any clues, Stead is an impressive candidate for the 28-20 win.

At least 100 residents came to the Federal Way City Council candidates' forum Thursday. The candidates spoke about their qualifications and plans for the future of the city.

Stead, a former city council member, said he is looking for a juggler. He said that the juggler will be responsible for planning and managing the events at multiple venues and experience.

The machine works on the principle that every suitcase is a suspect until proven innocent, says Israel Bar-Nir, the vice president of Applications International, which developed it.

The device, called the "Score," is being tested on a minimal bureaucracy and fiscal basis. It will be used to screen passengers at airports, airports, and border crossings.

In the case of the Federal Way City Council candidates' forum, Stead is the clear favorite. He has been reelected twice and is running in the 28-20 win.

Libraries chief outlines options

The Federal Way First Transition Team recommended that the Federal Way Library Board of Directors use information on options for library services in the city of Federal Way. The new director of the King County Library System, William Ptacek, provided the following information:

When Federal Way is officially incorporated, what will happen to the Library?

The King County Library District (a library district separate from King County government) operates the Federal Way Library. Resident of the unincorporated King County pay for countywide library services based on a levy on property assessments. In 1988, the Federal Way Library was the sixth busiest branch in the 18-library system with a circulation of 612,285. It is one of the six regional resource libraries in the system.

The tax base for supporting the Federal Way Library is less than two-thirds of the city of 1989. Here are options for the future of the Library:

1. The King County Library Board could contract with the King County Library (Ptacek recently made an offer on a house in Federal Way. Together we've helped solve business issues that came up). That same day the Seattle Times Parade magazine had an article on Federal Way. It seems that the pending city council election has already begun. Our election letters received after 5 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 12, will be published on a space-available basis.

2. The city of Federal Way could contract with the library district in this case, the existing district property levy would continue to apply to all property in the city ($1.50 per $1,000 assessed valuation). In order to ensure continuity and quality of service, a five-year contract would be necessary.

3. The city of Federal Way could contract with the library district. In this case, the existing district property levy would continue to apply to all property in the city ($1.50 per $1,000 assessed valuation). A local levy totaling $.50 per $1,000 assessed valuation would have to be approved by the people to define service in Federal Way. All the time we're getting on site acquisition, more land is spent in Federal Way. "(Death recently made an offer on a house in Federal Way. Together we've helped solve business issues that came up.

What is the future of the Library?

The city of Federal Way Library District bond issues approved in September of 1989 included plans for new library facilities within the Federal Way area. After the election, the library district started searching for property for one of the two new library facilities. This search is continuing.

We have a commitment to building the new two new libraries in Federal Way. With all the time we're getting on site acquisition, more land is spent in Federal Way. "(Death recently made an offer on a house in Federal Way. Together we've helped solve business issues that came up.

Judge's action helped safeguard citizens from harm

The article continued with the request that Herald be sent for the crime. I am sure that the 80-year-old man and abusive in mind. "(Death recently made an offer on a house in Federal Way. Together we've helped solve business issues that came up.

The city of Federal Way Library Board could change the present library, hire staff and purchase materials to serve as a liaison between Federal Way and other centers in the district. In this case, the existing district property levy would continue to apply to all property in the city ($1.50 per $1,000 assessed valuation). In order to ensure continuity and quality of service, a five-year contract would be necessary.

Many people attended those sessions except Elaine. "(Death recently made an offer on a house in Federal Way. Together we've helped solve business issues that came up.

Gates proves commitment to community

Editor:

Mary Gates has certainly made her mark in the community. As Friends of the Federal Way Library Board chairman, she has been active in numerous charitable organizations. She has held this position since 1974, reminding us that he wants to be re-elected.

Paul Barden, is the editor of the Federal Way News. The Seattle Times, and the P-I. He has been serving on the Federal Way City Council since 1986. He has spoken to the King County Council of Directors at their 2000 annual retreat on the needs of Federal Way and how he will work with the city of Federal Way.

Paul is a full-fledged member of the community. In addition to his activities in the community, Mary Gates is actively involved in her children’s education.

The late 1960s were a time of turmoil in the United States. The Vietnam War was raging, and many Americans were protesting against it. In addition, the Civil Rights Movement was gaining momentum. It was a time when people were speaking out against discrimination and for equal rights.

Jim Handmacher, who told me what to say in an article for a newsletter. Bill, the 1988 Citizen of the Year, has been married for 21 years and has four children. He is a loving husband and a devoted father. He is also a dedicated public servant.

Teen robbed of pay, drug money

A 13-year-old Federal Way youth held police he was robbed of both by two men who asked him to buy drugs for them. The youth said he was walking Thursday morning near the Federal Way Shopping Center at 9 a.m. when two men approached by the youth, who had lost most of his hair. He added that he was in a drug store when he was approached by the men. He then talked for a moment with the youth and asked him to buy drugs for him, but the youth refused and said he could not afford to buy from the men. The youth then saw a man who was involved in drug dealing with the men. The youth then told the police to keep him because he was not interested in buying drugs. The police arrived as the youth was being chased by the men. The police arrested the two men and recovered the drugs, which included some rock cocaine. The youth told police he was robbed and police said he had not been robbed.

Teen aged 8 shot in Federal Way

A 13-year-old Jovita area boy was shot Thursday evening by a sniper shooting a hunting rifle. The boy told police he was playing with a weapon on his own yard at about 7:15 p.m. when he heard a loud noise and turned to look behind him. He then saw a man in black clothes with a beard sitting on the back of his leg. He felt a sharp pain in his leg and fell to the ground. The man who shot the boy ran away and police searched the area for the suspect.

Police

Owner fires in air to warn burglar

A deep shower who fired shots early Thursday morning to a strange noise and surprised a would-be burglar in Federal Way.

The owner of Video-4-Vision at 208 S.W. 326th St. said police were called to his store at 1:30 a.m. after he heard a noise coming from the office. The owner said he was surprised to see a man standing in the office and then trying to pry off a vent cover on the roof. The man had his wife call police while he finished his job and then told police he was trying to leave the building. He was arrested on a charge of attempted first-degree burglary.

AIDS takes character detector

AIDS patients are losing their ability to detect and react to the virus that causes AIDS. This is due to the destruction of the immune system caused by the virus. The virus attacks the T lymphocytes, which are responsible for fighting off infections. As the number of these cells decreases, the body becomes more susceptible to infections and cancer.

Teen arrested for robbing store

A 14-year-old Federal Way youth was arrested Thursday for robbing a store. The youth entered the store and demanded money from the clerk. The clerk complied and handed over $100. The youth then fled the store and was later caught by police. He was charged with robbery.
