Fire district makes a fashion statement

Another way to beat the stuffy mistakes when the Steel Lake Complex's buildings were built 30 feet into the county right-of-way. The land the buildings sat on was dedicated to the county by a former property owner in 1961 to be used for the eventual extension of South 354th Street. The street was extended east toward Interstate 5.

The current owners of the apartment complex, developers McDonald and Associates, have been working on the old easement during a recent lawsuit and buying the land for the complex. They want to meet again with the council when a representative of the complex is ready to sell the complex to the buyer. The city might consider a court ruling on the easement issue is resolved. The city council might require developers to compensate city officials in other words to pay the city for the value of the land.

Apathy is enemy of ballot effort to keep 911 service

By LYNN FRANCAZICO

"We are afraid that once people would vote to keep King County's 91 emergency telephone system.

Proposition 1, which appears on this fall's ballot, would require voters to approve a new tax that would fund the service. The new tax would raise $5,000 to $6,000 per year for each county in order to maintain the 911 service.

But DIA HUAN, who heads the Save 911 Committee, said that many voters are not aware that the emergency system must be reviewed by a vote every six years.

"If this isn't approved, we'll see the general elections of 1991 and 1992," Huan said. "There will be no operation after that with no approval from the voters," she said.

The EMERGENCY telephone service is funded primarily by a 30-cent-a-month fee on all telephone lines in the county. Each month, fees will increase to 35 cents a month, according to Huan.

Proposition 1 appears as the first call for a telephone tax of up to 40 cents a month. The additional funding authority increases the total tax rate to 40 cents a month, according to Huan.

The emergency service is reviewed every year, and proposals are evaluated by the King County Board of Supervisors. The board approves the proposal, according to Huan.

"There's no way we could allow the general elections of 1991 and 1992," Huan said. "It's not a proper surge," Huan said. "So we're pushing to keep King County's 91 emergency telephone system."

If penalty-free plays were a standard of the league, the Thomas Jefferson Raiders would be the champions. They were 12-0 on the season, including a 21-7 win over the Federal Way Eagles.

The key to the game was the wishbone offense. It was a 5-2 team, and they were never able to stop the rushing attack.

Jefferson continued holding their own on defense, but the Eagles were able to take advantage of a few turnovers.

Q: Do Steve and Lisa love her, Jen? Do they have any children?
A: Yes. The couple feel that they have been blessed with children. As Lisa says, "I'm not sure that I could have as much love for anything else as I do for my children." And Steve Martin agrees, adding, "We can't wait to see our sons open their eyes and start to explore the world of cars with kitchens and bathrooms."

W: What's the name of the movie that Steve is starring in?
A: The movie is called "The Great Outdoors." It's a story about a family on a camping trip in the Rocky Mountains. The family consists of Steve, his wife, and their two children. The movie is filled with humorous situations and classic one-liners. Steve Martin's character, Carl Spackler, is a self-centered salesman who could not be further from nature. However, during the trip, Carl learns the value of nature and the importance of spending time with his family. Steve Martin's performance in the movie is praised for its wit and charm. The movie is a classic comedy that remains popular to this day.

Family restaurant keeps its food simply delicious

by BRAD BROWER

At Tokyo Teriyaki, you are what you eat.

"I like the food," says owner Caroline Chang. "It's fresh, flavorful, and full of variety." And that's exactly what you get at Tokyo Teriyaki. The restaurant is known for its fresh ingredients and its ability to cater to different dietary needs.

The three of them came to the United States from Korea in 1971 after Chang's husband died in a car accident. Setting up shop in the West coast, Chang found little support for her floral design business, so she turned her attention to the culinary arts. She eventually opened Tokyo Teriyaki in 1980.

"We wanted to create a place where people could come and enjoy good food," says Chang. "We wanted to create a restaurant that would be welcoming to everyone." And that's exactly what they did. Tokyo Teriyaki is known for its friendly staff, its diverse menu, and its delicious food.

Parents built kids’ house, but who should deduct the interest?

Dear Mr. Campbell,

I am writing to you seeking information about the deductibility of mortgage interest for income taxes.

My husband and I built our children’s house, but we are unsure who should deduct the interest on the mortgage for tax purposes.

I am married to a salaried employee who works in a high-level position, and I work part-time from home as a bookkeeper. We have been married for 10 years and have two children. We currently have a mortgage on our home.

We paid off the mortgage earlier than planned due to a combination of factors, including a significant increase in our income and a desire to reduce our debt. We are now considering refinancing our mortgage to take advantage of current low interest rates.

I understand that the deductibility of mortgage interest is a complex issue, and I am seeking guidance on how to approach this matter.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
