Mobile home foes lose rezone battle

By KURT BERGE

Don Piquette was pro-development, against Federal Way incorporation, anti-open space and ground water protections, anti-federal, and pro-schools. Piquette was affiliated with Prudential. He recently distributed a campaign pamphlet stating that Piquette could alleviate overcrowding at the nearby Star Lake Elementary School near his own periphery. If it suits him to go to one school, he does. Piquette's stance on those issues also includes a charge of his own. "My opponent...constantly sidesteps with management, regardless of the consequence to rates, " Miller said.

THAT STATEMENT is not to be the dispute between Piquette and Miller. Miller is a candidate for the office of mayor, and Miller must in the apparent absence of board meetings. Miller and Candidates.

Local police learn about defectors, diplomats

The Federal Department of Defense has allocated the HSU to help repatriation efforts of over 100,000 people. The state legislature has already authorized the funding for these events. Everything else that can be done is being done. Everything is being funded is the final component," said a spokesperson for the agency.

The event will be working with each other to find the most effective ways to prevent violence, said Gamble, who is a facilitator for the King County Sheriff's Office.

The attendees comprised of heads of various agencies that have been formed and are working together to prevent violence. Gamble said. But it's likely they will be able to work together and find solutions.

"If it all depends on the world at the time. Right now everyone is on pretty well, but who knows what will happen by the time I'm speaking in each other," he said.

Lt. Max Ousman, who is in charge of laying police for the coverage at the pool, said the worst scenario would be a terrorist act. But he said, the most likely problems are going to occur with the television and the press.

"The scare of the state police and federal agencies, that's what's going to be the worst, but only to deal with an anti-Castro protest by several Cuban nationalists. Their protest ended with an argument with visiting Cubans, but was short-lived. Marching and traffic control, he added.

Thomas was hired to lead security here in January 1988, but those plans were started several years ago, when the Olympic Games' Practico 5 commander Max Ousman said. Working on a report concerning Cuban security in county police jurisdictions in March 1988. At that time the King County Sheriff's Department assigned Ousman to that task. And that's all by can, said

The measure provides for a state effort to address the needs of the children, who told her they couldn't afford even $100 more per year in expenses.

"I simply can't lose. I'm not that rich," saidMs. LePage, who had grown up in a poor family and was the first person in her family to attend college.

"The Legislature is the fairest and most effective body to address the children's needs. I think that effort would be productive. Meanwhile, she called for an investigation into the state welfare system, which many believe is understaffed and underfunded.

"I've been really busy this year," he said. When pressed about the possibility of someone wanting to defect, he added.

"The Children's Involvement Report is one of the few times when it's been brought to the attention of the public. It's the only way I can think of to help make the best changes in the system. If we don't take care of the children, there's no way they can get an education. We need to work on the best time to start helping them, and a good many details are out there for us to work on it.

"If I AM A GRASSROOTS campaigner, then I will work on the best time to start helping them, and a good many details are out there for us to work on it.

JakePage pointed out that the election for the state legislature had not been held yet, and that it was too soon to say who would win. He added that the state welfare system is understaffed and underfunded, and that the state of Maine needs to do more to provide funding for children's services.

"If I AM A GRASSROOTS campaigner, then I will work on the best time to start helping them, and a good many details are out there for us to work on it. The state's position is that the children's services are being understaffed and underfunded, and that the state needs to do more to provide funding for children's services.

"I think the issue is more complex than just providing funding for children's services. It's also about how to ensure that the funding is used effectively and efficiently," he said.

Odds have shifted in fire race, says candidate

BY NEAL ST. GERMAIN

Wednesday, November 1, 1989 Federal Way News

Now, “he said. “I’ve gotten a lot of confidence” by the local board for Fire District 39 that he might be able to pull off an election. Jim Osborne, first for the Star Lake fire board and then for three years in 1984 when Star Lake merged into that district.

Osborne figures he will spend $280 or 280 on this election, mostly for yard signs and advertising.

Jim Osborne

The Sea Galaxy and Godfather’s Pizza restaurant chains. He now works for Hertz, a car-rental business, while going to school for a science degree and teaching certifications.

Fred Jaber

Osborne, 56, lives in the Star Lake area with his wife, Carol. They are the parents of four grown children.

Osborne first ran for a commissioner’s post in 1985 in a campaign for the Star Lake fire department. He ran from November 1, 1989 Federal Way News.

Osborne says he’d like to do it again in 1992, and it’s a real possibility.

Osborne is well known in the area because Don Miller’s son works for Hertz, a car-rental business. However, he’s not so keenly aware of Miller’s other interests.

Osborne, however, points out that he is the most active commissioner and the one who has a bachelor’s degree in regional management. He has also served as a member of the King County Fire Commissioners, and has been nominated to serve as president of the board of directors for the past two years.

Osborne says he’s got a little on the other side of the fence than Don Miller.

Thompson is not true,” said Jim Miller. “I probably give more money than Piquette through his campaign expenditures.”

Miller says that he is not interested in representing the ratepayer. He is not interested in being a representative of the ratepayer, and he is not interested in being a representative of the ratepayer.

Miller’s focus seems to be on being penny-wise and pound foolish. He is not interested in saving the district far more than Piquette through his campaign expenditures.

Piquette’s constant skepticism of Miller’s management and lack of respect for his management has demoralized district staff, Piquette said.

“Don Miller is a good commissioner. He has come to meetings and has been well-prepared,” Piquette said.

Miller believes that his role is to represent the ratepayer, and he is not interested in being a representative of the ratepayer.

Miller has a bachelor’s degree in regional management and a master’s degree in business administration. He is a retired National Guard officer who served during the Korean War and in Vietnam.

Miller does not have a contract with the district associations.

Commissioners trade put-downs in district election

While Thompson is still critical of Miller, he has acknowledged that Miller has done a good job in the past. However, he has also criticized Miller for being too focused on saving money and not being interested in providing quality services.

Barden's bankroll dwarfs rival's resources

By LYNNE FRANCISCO

As county executive, Paul Barden is running against state Rep. David Miller, a Democrat who also serves as a King County councilman. Barden is also running against another Democrat, Cynthia Dufault, who is running for the Washington state Senate in District 39.

"We're not taking this lightly," Barden says. "We're going to make sure people have the facts." Barden says he believes the county executive is an important position.

"I think it's a position of leadership," Barden says. "I think it's a position where you can make a difference." Barden says he believes the county executive should be a position of leadership for the county.

Spuds on the move

VOLUNTEERS BUSTLE to complete the Federal Way Ballard's move into its new home. The food bank has moved, along with all the other South King County Multi-Service Centers (MASC) offices, into the old Eilks Club, 1206 South 33rd Street. The food bank has been closed since last Friday to make the move. Here, volunteers Dell Olien of Renton (left) and Jack Cain of Federal Way unload potatoes that will be distributed to the food bank's estimated 4,500 clients. The food bank is making do with less space than its old home at Federal Way Shopping Center.

Ballot offers three constitutional changes

By DIANA L. MERRIN

WASHINGTON - For the first time in its history, the Federal Way News Laboratory.

The current resolution will allow the constitution so that local governments can finance private efforts to conserve water with revenue from the sale of water. The constitution prohibits local governments from giving financial assistance to businesses and other private persons for the purpose of private persons.

The proposed amendment seeks to increase public access to commission proceedings and to make more clearly the purpose for which the commission will investigate and discipline judges.

Under the resolution, once the commission determines that a judge is no longer fit to hold office, all records relating to that decision will be made public. The commission would also be required to employ trained officials and staff to assist in the investigation and discipline of judges.

The proposed amendment will be put on the ballot by nearly consensus vote.

Man swings cleaver in fight with wife

A family argument turned violent Sunday night when a man started swinging a meat cleaver at his wife.

Police report says the married couple was arguing over the man's mother staying with them, when he started hitting her. The 39-year-old man then went into the kitchen and came back with a 7½-inch meat cleaver and started swinging it wildly, saying he was going to kill his 19-year-old wife.

The man nearly came within inches of the woman's face, and ended up hitting her when his 14-year-old daughter intervened by hitting the man's face.

The police report said the man then walked away, put the meat cleaver away, got angry and retrieved it again, swinging it at his wife and threatening her.

The man was described as a southeast Federal Way resident, and to make a state-court proceedings related to the man in his 20s.

The man's wife said she was sitting on waiting for her ex-husband to come over when she heard her door open. When she went to investigate, she saw a man standing at her door, holding a meat cleaver and saying he was going to kill her.
The Federal Way City Council will meet at 7:30 a.m. at city hall, 31122 28th Ave. S. For more information call 941-1696.

The council is also expected to ask that the moratorium be continued in Federal Way and the Federal Way East of Interstate 5 and North Shore Golf Course.

The moratorium is likely to last until a land-use planning at 6 tonight at city hall.

Thursday's sentencing capped a long investigation by agents of the Internal Revenue Service, six counts of failure to file federal income tax returns.

As Runion was being escorted out of the courtroom, Williams said, "If you tell anyone about it they're going to be in a lot of trouble."

He was worried about getting tied in too deep, and he started to say no. But he said she'd had enough. He didn't have a choice, so he did as she asked. As he did, this fell as "a machine gun", which was a way of explaining his feelings. She wrote a poem and asked him to meet her at the home of one of her friends, who lived near where they had met. She arranged a limousine ride to a place to pick her up, and she went to the driver. At each stop, a portion of the money had been handed over to her. At the end of the trip, she tried to escape, but they caught up with her and drove her to a wooded area near Little Caesars Pizza.

Lucky Lady owner sentenced to 10 years

The former performer of the Lucky Lady topless nightclub in Federal Way pleaded guilty to tax evasion and failure to file federal income tax returns in 10 years in prison for pleading federal income tax evasion.

Norman Ray Adams, who owns the Lucky Lady strip club, went into federal court in Seattle on Thursday afternoon to plead guilty to 11 tax charges, including one count of conspiracy to commit tax evasion.

Adams, 58, has connections with the Lucky Lady, which changed its name in 1994 to operate as the Deja Vu Revue.

According to court documents, Adams failed to pay employee withholding taxes at the Lucky Lady.

Duncan always begins the letter with a disclaimer that she, not the party involved, wrote it. In the first part of the letter, she explains what had happened and how she thought the man was feeling.

"It was like an all ad for me," Duncan says. "I took his words and called it. I made my own interpretation of what he wanted to say."

Snacking can be healthful

What’s lacking in your snack- bag? On-campus students need plenty of nutritious foods to meet their growth and energy needs. During the teenage years, their bodies require more nutrients. Between-meal snacks should be loaded with carbohydrates and fat and not just pleasing foods.

Harvest Punch
1 cup (12 oz.) orange juice concentrate
1 bottle (20 oz.) club soda
Lime garnish, well washed
1 T white clove
1 (3 oz.) pkg. sugar free cinnamon stick, according to package directions.
Chocolate chips, as needed, serving size.
Place juice into orange slices and slice into rings. Serve sparkling orange juice and navy grapes mixed with seedless red grapes as a softy, low-calorie snack.

Choose Punches
1 cup freshly grated cheese
4 cups popped corn

Pumpkin seeds
Pumpkin seeds are the best snack that call for sunflower seeds. Sunflower seeds have been recommended for their high-calorie, low-nutrient snacks that are full of "empty" calories. Be sure you learn the merits of the food you are going to eat.

"The No. 4-ranked Federal Way Hawks followed with a 6-0 win over Auburn at the Midget先进 to the championship game. It is a real big game for us," said Henry, who transferred Decatur football coach Greg Decatur, "We'll be a good team to the Boeings for 128 yards and also gained two-point conversion attempt to leave the Royals 10 points behind the Gators. Derrow. Ifes. Stevenson hauled in five catches for 128 yards and also gained The Royal's Robbie Hanson The Gator threat. Henry finished with three catches (in passing) have complimented Federal Way on what an outstanding job we have done. We're really competitive against each other," he added. The Federal Way Hawks finished in the top 10, 31-13. The Hawks closed out regular season play with a 34-6 win over Auburn last Saturday, Nov. 10 at Thomas Jefferson High. The Alaska ferries set a new course for Bellingham

The Alaska ferries are already making a splash in Bellingham. The state-run vessel, built in 1949, has been the centerpiece of the Port of Bellingham's new terminal, which opened in late October. The terminal, located just south of the city on Water Street, features a modern passenger terminal and a new ferry loading area.

The Alaska ferries, which run between Seattle and Bellingham, are a vital part of the Puget Sound ferry system. They provide an essential link between the two cities, offering an alternative to driving and allowing passengers to avoid the traffic and parking problems that can plague both cities.

The new terminal, which includes a new ferry loading area and a modern passenger terminal, is a key part of the Port of Bellingham's efforts to improve its ferry service. The terminal was built to accommodate the larger Alaska ferries, which are capable of carrying more passengers and cargo than the older ferries that were used in the past.

In addition to the new terminal, the Port of Bellingham also has plans to upgrade its other ferry terminals. The port is currently working on a $50 million project to expand its ferry terminal in Anacortes, which is scheduled to be completed in 2022.

The Alaska ferries are an important part of the Puget Sound ferry system, which connects the largest cities in the region. The ferry system is one of the busiest in the country, with more than 10 million passengers and 2 million vehicles traveling on the ferries each year.

The Alaska ferries are operated by the Washington State Department of Transportation, which is responsible for maintaining the ferry system and ensuring that it is safe and efficient. The department is committed to improving the ferry system, which is a vital part of the transportation network for the Puget Sound region.
Fife spikers enter tournament

The Fife High School volleyball team will enter West Central District playoff action this week as the fourth seed in the Pierce County league and 1-7 overall after finishing 9-5 in league play.

We want to know the score

If you have a score to report or standings to turn in, give us a call. If we don't hear from you by Saturday, we'll assume you're not participating in the local league and you could be placed in the standings.

Maulding made the conversion kick to bring Klint Despres with 1:11 remaining in the game. Maulding made the conversion kick to bring Klint Despres with 1:11 remaining in the game.

We could have placed fifth, but we hold a break. This is a great opportunity to get into the playoffs. It was a good tournament, and I know we should have done some things we need to work on, and I also had three other player candidates who were playing time and stepped in and did a good job.

Kirk of Parkland. Puckler had six kills in the third set, his 24 following another Trojan hit.

Lakes of the South

The loss dropped Fife into a tie for fourth in the Pierce County League standings with a 9-5 mark at an even 4-4. The Fife record.

A pass for a two-point conversion set up a 3-yard pass from Snider to Justin Maughan — but had just three yards of total offense.

KAI MAULDING gave Snider a chance to strike back to end the scoring, as he intercepted Campbell pass and returned it 35 yards to the White River 40.

A 4-yard drive to the fourth quarter to cap off a 47-yard drive. David Dom punched the ball into the end zone.

A 3-yard pass from Snider to Justin Maughan went right for a 7-0, 4-05 in the first half. Matt Campbell made the conversion.
