Council broaches moratorium end

By KURT HERZOG

The Federal Way City Council discussed, in executive session, the possibility of lifting a building moratorium to allow the construction of some commercial projects.

That discussion was the highlight of a four-hour retreat held to lead the council back to Wednesday.

The council discussed lifting the ban on the construction of stores, offices and other commercial projects, the possibilities of allowing single-family homes to be built and was put in place primarily to control the development of the moratorium was adopted in June 1988.

It allows only single-family homes to be built and was put in place primarily to control the development of the moratorium area.

Pipepline wins tentative approval

By KURT HERZOG

The King County Council today approved a tentative agreement for a Green River water pipeline through the county, but there's no immediate start.

Tacoma Water must come back to the council in a year with plans to conserve water, King County Council Chairwoman Madrona Meadows will give final approval for construction permits for the project, known as Pipeline 5.

Tacoma has been trying to start construction on the pipeline for the last ten years, but has had to pay about $10 million dollars a year for water from the Green River, which is the primary source of water for the region. Federal Way, on the other hand, has been using its own water supplies, which are generally drying up.

For Federal Way, and many other South King County water districts, Pipeline 5 is the only hope to continue to meet growing demands. In Federal Way, the situation is particularly dire because Federal Way's water supply pipeline to the district gets almost all the water it needs from the pipeline, and that water is running low.

Federal Way Water and Sewer District officials anticipate that the district will be able to meet demand during peak periods by 1990 without a new water ordinance. Assuming Tacoma gains approval for the pipeline, it will be able to start construction in 1991, and the pipeline should be in operation by 1993.

your limitation," said John Walter, superintendent of Tennis. "They got tired of it." Walter said the council has seen a trend to limit private use of tennis courts. The council agreed with Walter and decided to lift the moratorium on tennis court construction. The council members felt that lifting the moratorium would encourage more private use of tennis courts.

Wayne said it is his responsibility to convince the council to remove the moratorium. However, the council members were not convinced and decided to keep the moratorium in place. Wayne said he would continue to work with the council to try to convince them to lift the moratorium.

Councilman Harry Danner, who is responsible for the city's tennis courts, said, "We need to look at the bigger picture and see the value of having tennis courts in the community."

Meanwhile, the council members were still discussing the moratorium issue. They were unsure whether to lift it or not. The council will have to decide on the moratorium issue at its next meeting.

Hylebos area haven puts end to Christian Life's wanderings

BY WENDY CULVERWELL

The Rev. Michael Axton knows that the landscape of Federal Way's Wetlands has been a catalyst for his congregation. In the past few years, fervor for Christ Reformed Church's Christian Life Assembly, based in Axton's Christian Life Assembly, has definitely been growing. Axton's Christian Life Assembly, located at 629 S. Federal Way, is the new property at 629 S. Federal Way, Axton's third property in Federal Way. Since selling its old property at 2415 S. 320th St., the church has already drawn up plans and approved construction. Eric Slagle, 7, hurls a rock into the buffer zone that surrounds the church. The church will dedicate its new facilities on Nov. 11.

Celebrate unsung saints Sunday

By THE REV. JANICE M. GILLEN
Pastor of the Epworth Church and family

Nov. 5 is celebrated as "All Saints Day," with the nearest Sunday being designated to observe it. This is a day to remember all the saints, from the dead or great, of whom we have no knowledge, but who are known before God. These saints are our own, such as St. Francis of Assisi.

On this day (Nov. 5 this year), I remember a saint who lived in my city and who has given shape to my life.

Faith. There is Alice, who went to a home for the aged, and had hands of two-tiny fingers. She never died alone. And Mary is Waller, poor in eyesight and hearing, having lived with diabetes, in a wheelchair, living in permanence. But with a 13-year-old actress' depiction, you would never think she was known. He taught a young person something about being a saint, not just being a saint in a church, of a poor and a poor heart, and who have made a day in the life of a person who has died in the faith of God. Take a moment to remember "All Saints" Sunday to pause and remember the "saints" who have been and shaped your life.

The bond would benefit Kent's seniors.

CONVICTED OF A CRIME he didn't commit. Jimmie Rainwood (Tom Selleck, left) must deal with a new set of enemies in "An Innocent Man."

Federal Way teams gain state berths

Talk about domination. One look at the South Puget Sound League's three berth to the state Class AAA girls' soccer tournament says it all:

No. 1 — Federal Way
No. 2 — DeCeair
No. 3 — Thomas Jefferson

That order of finish was cemented Tuesday night when Federal Way beat DeCeair 2-1 in a showdown for the SPSL's state-berth spot.

Federal Way, which had dominated the SPSL regular season, had not lost a game since Feb. 27. DeCeair had not lost a match since Nov. 28, when it fell to the Eagles in the SPSL final.

Both teams entered Tuesday night's game with state-berth spots at stake. Federal Way had won the SPSL title, while DeCeair was the No. 1 seed in the state tournament.

The Eagles dominated the match, controlling the ball and limiting DeCeair's chances. Federal Way's offense was relentless, putting pressure on the Vikings' defense throughout the game.

In the end, Federal Way emerged victorious, scoring two goals to DeCeair's one. The Eagles' defense was solid, holding DeCeair to a single goal.

Federal Way will advance to the state tournament as the No. 1 seed, while DeCeair will be the No. 2 seed. Thomas Jefferson will be the No. 3 seed and will face the winner of the Wesco No. 1 team (either Snohomish or Shorewood) in the state tournament.

Eagles capture Federal Way girls' soccer playoffs, "recalled the senior state as the South Puget Sound League champions and the No. 1 seed in the state tournament. "We want it more."

The Thomas Jefferson girls' soccer team, also a state champion, had already qualified for the state tournament. The Eagles' victory on Tuesday night guarantees them a spot in the state tournament as well.

Federal Way's victory over DeCeair on Tuesday night adds to their impressive season. The Eagles have not lost a game this year and have dominated their opponents with their superior play.

DeCeair, on the other hand, had a strong season but were unable to overcome Federal Way's dominance in the SPSL regular season and playoff games.

With Federal Way as the No. 1 seed and DeCeair as the No. 2 seed, Thomas Jefferson as the No. 3 seed, and the Wesco No. 1 team (either Snohomish or Shorewood) as the No. 4 seed, the state tournament will be highly competitive.

The Eagles will look to repeat their state championship from last year, while DeCeair will be aiming for their first state championship. Thomas Jefferson will be looking to advance further in the tournament, and the Wesco No. 1 team will be hoping to earn a state berth.

The state tournament begins later at 2:15 p.m. Tuesday, with Federal Way taking on the winner of the Wesco No. 1 team (either Snohomish or Shorewood) in the state championship game.

DeCeair will be facing the second state championship team, with the Eagles looking to repeat their state championship win from last year. The Wesco No. 1 team will be looking to advance further in the tournament.

This type of game is sure to be competitive. Expect the teams to give their all in these opening rounds of the state tournament.
