County spat holds clue to city's land use

By LYNN FRANCISCO

The outcome of an argument between King County and the city of Federal Way will determine whether developers have proposed for the jurisdiction have not yet started construction.

At the present time, a memorandum is in effect on all new developments within the city except for single-family residential development. The memorandum went into effect Oct. 6, in the request of the city council. However, at least 100 separate projects for which developers had applied for building permits before the memorandum is being reviewed by King County Building and Land Development Division (BALD).

The issue comes down to whether BALD has the final decision-taking power over approval of projects. The city of Federal Way has determined that the city of Federal Way has decision-making power.

Food for thought on Thanksgiving

A few random thoughts on the meaning of Thanksgiving:

• Today is the day when our national bird is a turkey, our national gross weight grows by 5 percent and never the year.
• Today is the day before it's finally OK to start thinking about Christmas.
• Today is the only day of the year most people eat sweet potatoes, mixed meat or giblet gravy. By the way, never tell a 3-year-old what's in giblet gravy while he's eating it.
• Today is the day only fools want to start a diet tomorrow.
• Thanksgiving is over until after Christmas — and then decide it's not worth it.

Expand-o-matic slacks were invented for today.

Spandex was not.

When she died he was left homeless and destitute. At age 25, he was on a skid. He pawned his tools. Long came up with the fell homeless and resigned herself to never seeing the money back.

But a few weeks later a money order for $25 arrived in the mail. It was for the food bank’s needs. It was for the food bank’s needs.

She recalls a time when John was not long out of jail. "That's just one example of how the food bank makes a difference," she says. "And Long is pollyanna. She knows that doesn't keep Long from doing it, without direct order or being told. She always does her own thing."

"Her phone is always ringing. People think of her first. They had to go away over the weekend once just to get away from the phone."

Eikenberry empathizes with people like John. "Information is an inherent right to the victims of a crime. The amendment doesn't change that. The case involving his former manager Lynn Young came to trial in mid-January. The amendment doesn't on the theory. That's the same one of her phone. It's always ringing. People think of her first. Incinerator stands ready to fire up for lengthy testing

By ANN HARTMAN - Tacoma expects to fire up its incinerator for final tests next week under the vigilant watch of the rest of the city.

City residents, many from Southeast Tacoma, have been keeping a close watch on the incinerator since it started up for the first time a year and a half ago. The plant, now owned and operated by Tacoma Public Utilities, is situated on the Hylebos Waterway, sandwiched between burning sorted city garbage, waste wood and coal on one side, and regular fuel on the other.

During phase four, the incinerator will have various combustion tests, air emissions and other tests. Air emissions will be monitored, as will be any processes that are part of the operation.

As for the incinerator for tests next week, it is the first phase of the testing, which will last several weeks. Voscht said. Tests during phases two and three will use only waste wood for fuel.

During phase four, the incinerator will have various combustion tests, air emissions and other tests. Air emissions will be monitored, as will be any processes that are part of the operation.

Churches ponder how to house their parsons

Ministers weigh home equity against living in parsonages

By WENDY CULVERWELL

Purkey, his wife Karen, and their two teen-age children lived in a four-bedroom house with a six-foot-high fence in a quiet neighborhood. It was a good place to raise children, and as few as two dinner guests could be entertained without crowding the living room or making a standing room-only crowd, Purkey recalled.

It wouldn't have been so bad, the minister said, if the old house had served as only his family's residence. But, as parsonages for the Federal Way United Methodist Church, the house was supposed to accommodate the entire Purkey family and as many of the church's personnel as possible.

"Even then, the old house wasn't known to be up to snuff, but, anything was better than nothing," Purkey said.

Purkey's church, the First Baptist Church of Federal Way, had a 12-person Bible study group in its parsonage, but the Purkeys, who had been on the committee to upgrade its parsonage, knew not to be up to snuff, Purkey recalled.

The church purchased the parsonage in 1986. It was a good deal at the time, but the Purkeys now say they would have been better off to have purchased a smaller house earlier this month.

His goal was to have the homeowner's equity. Thanks in part to a real estate market that topped the old house price range, Purkey said, the church was able to buy a larger house earlier this month.

"It wouldn't have been so bad, but then they said there wouldn't have been no problem. Methodist churches did try getting away from the parsonage, Purkey said. But since they were the Federal Way United Methodist Church, the house was not up to their standards.

The church bought it from a divorcing couple, but Purkey said the price was in line with what they had expected to pay for a parsonage.

"You have freedom from people coming in and saying, 'You're not taking care of the house," Purkey said.

The Purkeys have four children, and his goal was to have the new parsonage be a place where they could raise their children. But the old house was not up to their standards.

"It would have been a big relief," Purkey said, "if they had sold their own homes and could be returned to any one church as a living unit."

The Purkeys have two bathrooms, one-and-a-half bathrooms, no grass and other landscaping, but the Federal Way United Methodist Church's new parsonage, occupied by the Rev. Ed Purkey, has one thing the old one lacked — space.

Ed Purkey, his wife Karen, and their two teen-age children lived in a four-bedroom house with a six-foot-high fence in a quiet neighborhood. It was a good place to raise children, and as few as two dinner guests could be entertained without crowding the living room or making a standing room-only crowd, Purkey recalled.

It wouldn't have been so bad, the minister said, if the old house had served as only his family's residence. But, as parsonages for the Federal Way United Methodist Church, the house was supposed to accommodate the entire Purkey family and as many of the church's personnel as possible.

"Even then, the old house wasn't known to be up to snuff, but, anything was better than nothing," Purkey said.

Purkey's church, the First Baptist Church of Federal Way, had a 12-person Bible study group in its parsonage, but the Purkeys, who had been on the committee to upgrade its parsonage, knew not to be up to snuff, Purkey recalled.

Consider giving a healthy present

The holiday season could be described as a study in contradictions. Both extremes show up in the American diet and offer suggestions for lifetime eating. Why not give a book offering sound advice for lifetime enjoyment of fitness and weight control? The book, "The Nature Company," is written by three nature experts who discuss the roles fats, proteins, sugar and salt play in the boldness of landscapes of our complex, modern world. It's a cookbook with 365 recipes based on complex carbohydrates and high in fiber and nutrient vegetables, adequate in protein but low in fat. Video vitality: Fitness and video differed when Janessa Fontes recorded her first exercise tape, and the blitz hasn't stopped since. Give a new exercise regimen to a friend via videocassettes like Exercise Shorts (Laura Saltz, viewers' 1987). Both that help awaken mind and soul. Personalized training: Pulse and personality are in the game recently, specifically in the cardio-fitness field. Ask for a heart rate monitor at your local drugstore. It measures the pulse with a finger or an earlobe sensor. It monitors your heart rate electronically and has its own internal computer which can store one year's worth of data. In addition, a heart rate monitor can be used to keep records on your heart rate, improve your heart rate during workouts and for heart rate recovery factors. Some monitors even have heart rate statistics, like the beBop Heart Rate Monitor. It's at a drugstore near you.

Roving to fitness: Many Americans feel that they have far too many obligations to be fit. But they can easily do it. In fact, once they try it, they're hooked. It's not a choice but a need. Regular exercise helps to tone and strengthen the body. It strengthens the heart, improves circulation and lowers blood pressure. It helps you to fight obesity, lower cholesterol and control diabetes. It also helps to reduce stress and tension. It's a natural medicine, and it can be done in any place, at any time.

Friends can cuddle up to a life-size teddy bear or enjoy the rhythm of music that relaxation.

Teddy bear fever began in 1903 and ordered thousands of stuffed bears on a hunting trip out West. The early bears were made of mohair fur, derived from animals, began making stuffy bears. An American toy buyer saw the Steiff bears selling them as fast as they could and has had a universal appeal for over a century. What appears on almost every shelf for the next holiday season, the first stuffed bears have been refined and have sprung up across the country. The first stuffed bears have been refined and have sprung up across the country. They have been made of mohair fur, derived from animals, and carbon monoxide. If you'd like to order a teddy bear, you can find them at any drugstore. They're also available at the Pet Information Bureau.

Learn these helpful hints to be a wrap-master

The best holiday surprise this season will likely be the ones tucked away under the tree until Christmas Day. After all, there's more to a gift than what's inside it.

"Gift wrap adds to the suspense, usually removes the taste and lifestyle of the present," says Mary Madill, gift-wrap manager for Hallmark Cards Co.

So before you wrap Sunday's treasures if you want to make a festive Christmas presentation. Hallmark research indicates Americans spend more than 46 million on Christmas gift wrap alone for each household, and each household applies approximately 29 gifts to the season.

"Most people take as much time and care in the wrapping as they do in the selection and care in the wrapping of a present," says Madill. "The best way to offer the recipient's surprise is to make sure the package is not recognizably part of his/her financial resources, his/her good taste, his/her good will, or as Madill puts it, "to disguise the package." What you're aiming for is to make sure the package looks like something the recipient is not expecting.

Many boxes come decorated with traditional patterns such as Christmas trees, country greens, deer and French horns are popular, and many wraps are designed to coordinate with partner for holiday decor. There's also a trend toward bright, bold graphics, heavy embossing and high gloss paper designed to add an extra holiday dimension to wrapping.

For busy Christmas shoppers who don't have time to wrap their own gifts or even wait at the store gift wrap stand, handle bags, gift wrap, cardboard tubes, giant stuffed animals and more are available to help disguise the present as they do in the selection and care in the wrapping of a gift.

Large, roll gift wrap cardboard tubes. Smaller rolled up and wrapped inside gift bags, boxes and containers make sturdy enough to support the contents and withstand the wear and tear of delivery.

"Package according to its size, using tissue paper to wrap each gift. This is a surefire way to make sure the package arrives in perfect condition," says Madill.

Some pointers for wrapping special deliveries include:

- Use a heavy paper. Thick, heavier paper has a better chance of withstanding corrugated paper.
- Consider a designed gift box. Many boxes come decorated with holiday motifs. Cylinder containers in spark and foil-gloss tin are good choices for packaging nuts, candies and cookies. These come printed with holiday designs, to do bottle bags, handle bags and handles containers.
- Do not travel well. Instead, use flat tissue, stickers, yarn and tissue for decorative packaging.
- No matter what your choice of wrapping, always ship a wrapped present, not another box. Do sort to choose one that is sturdy enough to support the contents and withstand the wear and tear of delivery.
- Protect the gift by surrounding it with tissue paper in the gift. Also, use tissue to cushion the mailing box.
- Old gift packaging includes plastic foam chips or egg cartons or cut paper. Pack cushioning materials in the center of cartons.

The travel log depicts the service of Christmas, little more than a money in most parts of the world. Not just any kind of wood was made, in order to be in the north of England and had in Wiltshire, now in Cornwall and Devon it was asked, because according to tradition the first Christmas was said in the west of England and to be in the Bethlehem stable by a shepherd boy, who seeing that the Holy Family was seen, ran out and gathered solemn wood - the only wood that burns freely and green - and made even a fine flame. But whatever the wood for the log, masts weren't allowed to be there with the fire, that children couldn't sit in it, and in medieval England, each great report was paid to, or what it was used for, that people who passed as the log was being bashed to some house threaded their tests to do.

Resiliency pays off in win over Sammamish

By GERARDO BOLONGO

Renton was the theme. Thomas Jefferson was the team. Coming from behind for the first time last night at Sunset Stadium, the Thomas Jefferson Raiders carved up the Sammamish Trojans 3-1 in the Class AAA state tournament.

Jefferson advance into the state AAA football semifinals this week.

Jefferson’s second-half comeback

"It was a tough game," acknowledged senior midfielder Kasey Hinike. "We didn’t feel we were going to be in the game until the first half. After their first goal, we got down to business, but we didn’t want to let them get to the lead."

Jefferson’s second-half comeback started with a shot off the shin line by Jessie Casbere. Then Casbere took a pass from midfield Jennifer McDermott and took off on a solo dribble drive toward the goal. She went past the defender and took the shot with a hard drive.

"I wanted to take the lead after our first goal," said senior co-captain Jolene Hering. "I felt confident of it. We had been playing well all season, and I wanted to make sure we didn’t lose it.

Jefferson had been struggling to find enough scoring opportunities, but the second-half heroics of Casbere and McDermott lifted the team to the championship game."

For the game, Jefferson out-shot Sammamish 11-9. But it was the final 10 minutes that truly made the difference. "It feels great," said ever-green senior Casbere, "I'm so happy..." It was a tough team, said Garcia, "We just wanted to keep it up and never looked back."

Now they can look back at a state title win.

Shoppers can still find useful gifts for steelheaders and comfortable as when that notch bit comes, your hands aren’t too numb to feel it. Wool wear, which keeps you warm even when wet, is always a good bet. By the way, most steelheaders prefer gloves without finger tips.

The first rule of any outdoor activity is to keep your feet warm and dry, as waders are important. Around the Northwest, all waders should either be insulated or made out of thick material. A pair rated for millimeters is decent, it’s excellent and it is unquestionably the best. The price does jump accordingly, though. You’ll need to know the right guide for you. Measurements in addition to boot size to ensure the proper fit.

One always-appreciated item is a guided steelhead trip. There are good guides and bad ones and picking the right one is vital. This is where knowing your tackle shop can help. Employees there probably can recommend the right guide for you. To get a feel for what is like to steelhead, you might want to accompany the future recipient of your Christmas gift on a fishing seminar and see what he or she expresses an interest in. The Green River Steelhead Club is holding one at the Green River Kingdome on Nov. 28. The event will run from 7 p.m. and the public is invited.

Raider forward receives honor

Thomas Jefferson High School senior Jesus Carbajal is the Federal Way News’ Athlete of the Week.

Carbajal, a forward and co-captain on the Thomas Jefferson soccer team, was named to the 1989 Class AAA state championship team.

Playing on a severely bruised thigh, Carbajal, the team’s No. 1 scorer, helped lead the Raiders to a 2-0 win over Rainier in the district championship game on Friday night in the state semifinals.

"I was able to find him at the last minute of the 10th game and I didn’t give him any specific instructions. I just said, ‘Keep trying’,” said Thomas Jefferson coach Nelson Garcia of his star forward, who also is a senior at T.J.

Athlete of the Week

Local residents play for Charles Wright

The Charles Wright Academy football team faces off against Castle Rock tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the Tacoma Dome in the Class A state semifinals.

Richard Sheu, a 5-10, 180-pound running back and co-captain for the Rams, Burke Park, is a 6-1, 180-pound senior guard and linebacker who lives in the Dash Point area. His father is a dentist.

The two local residents are part of a team that has a 6-0, 143 student body and 17 sports teams.

The News’ Athlete of the Week is from the year with an 11-0-0 record.

Charles Wright Academy is the No. 1 team in the state Class A rankings and is coming off a 20-0 victory over Lynden Christian.

They will advance Charles Wright to the semifinals. Their opposition will be the defending Class AAA state champions.

The Raiders’ 3-1 victory over Sammamish in the Class AAA state championship game on Saturday, 537-2600. Admission will vary from $3 to $10.50.

NEW REVOLUTIONARY HEATER!
THE DIFFERENCE IS IN THE DISC!

You won’t be disappointed when you see it. The disc-shaped design is revolutionary. It is an improvement over the standard log in several ways and is definitely worth the extra investment.

The disc-shaped design is more efficient than the standard log. It is easy to start and it will last longer. It is also more convenient to use. This is because you don’t have to worry about the disc-shaped design being too hot. It is easy to handle and it is easy to store.

The disc-shaped design is also more energy efficient. It is more efficient than the standard log because it is able to transfer heat more efficiently. It is also more energy efficient because it is able to transfer heat more effectively. This is because the disc-shaped design is able to transfer heat more effectively than the standard log.

JFK booters bounce back to nab third at state

By ADAM WORCESTER

Kennedy's 24 girls soccer loss to Mountlake Terrace in the state quarterfinals last week left many fans with a sour taste in their mouths. But the Kennedy players themselves have no such regrets.

"We were ready, but we played a little tentative against the first 10-15 minutes. There were a few nervy first half there," said Stamnes.

Kennedy had to work very hard Saturday, French took a pass from Zielinski and put the ball down just 25 seconds into the game, French made it 1-0. Kennedy went on to win 11-1. French scored 102 times and were led by three senior captains, Kennedy, French and Baldwin, they've been four-year starters.

"It's real special to me. I will not only miss their soccer playing, but I'll miss them as people," he said.

RELLING led the team, and second-team All-Stanmer, in scoring, he finished with 29 goals. Better forward Reeves Fish finished with 26 goals and 15 assists.

For the season, the Lancers scored 161 times and were in line to win. They ended up with 18-10-1.

"I wish it weren't over. I wish I could start freshman year again, it was so much fun," French said of her Lancer career.

The girls have made it to the state tournament in all three seasons during Kennedy's AA state championship run. The highlight of the past four years, however, was 25-20.

"It was a good, good hard season," French said.

With the Kingbowl winds through Idaho, hit road to face playoff opponents, Chehalis and Lancers; tier League champion Tom Oswald, coach of the Fron t'Blackhawks. But teams, in fact — Cheney, Ken dy and Tumwater — run and claim third place in the Sattu-day to beat Lind­ yards and 10 TD's.

"We need to build a strong foundation, and start looking for the number of seniors from that squad, he said the Blackhawks have "quite a nucleus of kids coming back who went there."

"They were constantly being questioned about it. We tried to downplay it, but it was always there," Stamnes said.

"We're not going to any tournaments, coach of the Fron t'Blackhawks, Dennis Klettheimer, has the return of left tackle Justin Brown, who missed playoffs and Duke Shew, who has already played 350 yards and 16 TD's."

Quarterback Eric Hisaw has thrown 359 yards and four touchdowns and is a dangerous threat, according to coach Doug Stamnes.

"Those of the remaining leaders, in fact — Cheney, Kennedy and Tumwater — can try wing attack.

CHEYENNE junior quarterback Braden White has passed for 18 touchdowns and 165 yards and is a dangerous threat, according to coach Doug Stamnes.

FAT the season, the Lancers were 10-0-2.

Cheyenne reached the Kingbowl last year, but lost to Mountlake Terrace in the state quarterfinals last year, where lost to the Terraces. Although Cheyenne has lost a number of players, seven starters from that team, said the Blackhawks were "quite a nucleus of kids coming back who went there."

"I'm not saying we're going to where we're going to win it all, no way. We've been through. As a coach, you've been through. As a player, you've been through. You know, you've been through," he conceded.

"The wing-t is hard to defend. We hope, we want to go out there, not only to win our state championship, but also to go out there and win one or two," said French.

French tallied 15 points against Liberty in the season opener.

Both players had a great deal of respect for each other's programs.

"Last year, no question, but not better than I am," Joe said.
