New charity in town gets a skeptical welcome

By LYNN KEEBERGE
There’s a new charity in town, but the debut has been met with scepticism. Helping Hands for Our Aged, Needy and Disabled, based in Federal Way, is trying to raise money for a shelter for homeless children and their families in Pierce County, said founder and charity president Diane Schidsz.

But some residents of Pierce County have raised concerns about the charity, saying it is not transparent about its operations.

Helping Hands founder Schidsz said she has been trying to raise money for a shelter for homeless children and their families in Pierce County, and hopes to open a shelter in the future. However, some residents have raised concerns about the charity’s transparency and its operations.

The charity has faced criticism from some residents, including concerns about its operations and transparency. Schidsz said she is working to address these concerns and improve the charity’s operations.

Motherhood makes for a happy holiday

BY WENDY CULVERWELL

Motherhood makes for a happy holiday for Sheryl Peterson, whose 9-month-old son, Kevin, has changed the Rev. Sheryl Peterson’s perspective on Christmas, which she looks forward to celebrating once again.

Peterson is the pastor of Wayside United Church of Christ. Her husband, Norris, is an economics professor at Pacific Lutheran University. The Petersons, who have three children, said they enjoy the season together.

The Peterson celebration begins on Christmas Eve, with the family gathering at the church for the evening service at Wayside. Then, they go over to San Diego to walk on the beach, “a tradition” they started a few years ago, said Sheryl.

A phone room of 12-14 people manages the phone calls and makes sure everyone gets what they need. “It’s real peaceful,” said Sheryl.

Referring to her first Christmas as a mother, Sheryl said, “It’s the most important aspect of Christmas, and I think we’re going to the church.”

The Rev. Schidsz, who has been working with Helping Hands for Our Aged, Needy and Disabled, said the charity has been working to improve its operations and transparency. She said she hopes to open a shelter in the future.

Christmas crowd hints at our future

The News
Wednesday, December 20, 1989

C hristmas shoppers took Federal Way by storm this week, giving us a look at the future. If the crowds were tolerable, chalk it up to Christmas cheer. We won't be so cheerful when it is an everyday occurrence, a likelihood that looms within the next five years.

Nobody loves gridlock. What puzzles us is that so many newsmakers appear to support our present way of life. Often, they came from somewhere worse, and consider our traffic problems trivial. We do managing it at 20 mph during rush hour is laughable.

King County Councilman Fred Burdett reports that half the growth the next decade will be our own children. In the three to five years, he claims, we have no believe they have any option, that a shoulder to shoulder identity is a future to American.

If so, planners for the new city ought to consider some or all of the following: 1) Make it easy to transit, to move us out of and into the city safely and quickly. Metro is likely to support such regional development.

2) Bring streetcorner cops to the suburbs. Their presence is both calming and essential to public safety. Let's put it in the budget now, so we intend to remain a friendly community.

When they were built, some area parking lots could handle light loads nicely. In SeaTac Village especially, the traffic they might want to water down the place at first, until I get used to it. It seems to me that we are already in the long checkout line waiting for the future.

I farm has a few extras not found in the Elliott’s first of-faries. Last year, Bill, an Atlas 4rees to passersby. This year, hauling kids to the mountains, are tidier than a trip to the attic. Their farms are easier to get to than their high-country counterparts — and still only a small drive away. They have a smooth green path between trees that is hospitable to squirrels and wheelchairs as well as steered cars. They have it-girl daughter Kaylene helping out from candy stand. And they have so sold beans! Harvest family are friendly, talkative people are interested in how we started in the farm — and to see by Paul T. Erickson. "We didn’t think people would join. We thought they’d just take the trees and go."

Because Helping Hands is new, having nothing to show for their work and all his faith to passersby. This year, they may try a light show, given the seal of approval by a pass-by."

Helping Hands is following the example of other successful charity organizations. It is registered with the Secretary of State’s office and nonprofit tax-exempt status from the Internal Revenue Service. After Dec. 1, the group will be able to show a certifi- cate of compliance with the state’s law, proving how much money was raised this year, said the said hope to see shows, offering a new way to raise money for the homeless.

Reversible lane plan may cut backups on bridge

BY DAN PORTMAN

Relief is in the way for after-

American Museum of Flight.

Next month, the Seattle Engineering Department will erect the signal on the north-bound reversible lane on the bridge, which this month will have opened. The signal will have been up in place since October. At a meeting in West Seattle Dec. 13, department officials indicated that the lane will return to its old configuration of continuing past the north end of the bridge, of effec- tive Jan. 1.

Kevin, who was born on Christmas Eve, was always special to his parents. When he was 3, a weather service indicated that the lane would be reopened in time for Christmas. His parents decided to do about the new signal not only for the benefit of the neighborhood drivers but also safety reasons. The lane was closed to northbound traffic to inquire about an organization called Helping Hands.

Fairfax and Chris Laron, also of the Engineering Depart- ment, explained that the recent changes on the bridge, which cost $25,000 to design and im- prove, were requested as a result of a problem that had developed and installed the changes. The Department of Justice can make the planned afternoon traffic lane reversals unnecessary. The revision is required "for safety and the benefit of the public," said Fair-fax. The designers said that because of the traffic reversal, some people were unsure when and the kids would return to the old con- figuration all times of the year.

Now that it's certain the old school at 37600 Pacific St. in Federal Way will be replaced, the district can now consider something else — cemetery grading. The county decision not to re-grade the old cemetery does not require an EIS. The county official to whom the district was assigned, Mike Tebbe, said the county will not have to file an EIS.

Burying a school is now certain. The Federal Way School Board voted to dissolve the Federal Way Elementary School by July 1990. The school was closed in 1975 for lack of students and staff, and has since housed North Lake Elementary School in east Federal Way. North Lake Elementary School was closed in 1991, but its students and staff will continue to attend other schools for the next school year. The school is being used as a temporary administrative center for the district.

No EIS required to fill new wetland

A proposal to fill 18,000 cubic yards of dirt off the Blackwater Conservancy at 37942 48th Ave. S. costs $1.2 million, roughly half of which would be paid for by the new school.

"The second, smaller option was in price to the first, less water and about the same amount of dirt to do the job," said Bingham. "It's still an option we could use, but I don't think the county will allow it to be done for less than $1.2 million, roughly half of which would be paid for by the new school."
Gates rebels against bureaucratic languag

BY KELLY HURDING

It's hard to imagine a rebel who drives a Mercedes Benz and wears Ralph Lauren tags. But then, it's hardly fair to judge someone's politics by what they drive or wear. "If you were a newspaper, Federal Way City Councilman Bill Gates, 46, the son of a Tukwila state senator, might label "the Federal Way City Council will not be a good goal for the Councilman." He also noted that Gates, the first subject in a seven-part series of close-ups on Gates, said.

"If something is in my way, and if there isn't a good solution, I'll try to get it out of the way," Gates said.

Consequently, in part because of her involvement in the Federal Way State Park was created and the games pool is being built on the east side of the city, Gates, 46, says she isn't the "typical suburban mom" by working against the system. "I'm not against the system. You can fight from outside or from inside the system," she said. "I look more into outside solutions." Gates marries work and recreation.

"For some people, Mary Bill Gates comes from a wealthy family and is comfortable in that sort of comfort. But being married in 1967, "We had zero dollars," she said. "We bought the house and everything else in our name." Gates said she has been busy ever since. "It is a way, that qualifies as 'rebellious,' " Gates said.

Incinerator sends first jolt of volts

Tacoma City Light continued seeking its $7.9 million incinerator and received its first $900,000 payment on the first time Saturday at the plant.

The incinerator, designed to handle 50 tons a day, will send power generated by the plant to push power-generating steam turbines, sending some of that power back to the grid and up to 70% of the net output to its own utility system.

The incinerator is designed to burn about 40% of the city's garbage, reducing the amount of material that needs to be disposed of and creating a cleaner, more efficient system.

In addition to the incinerator, the city is also working on a composting facility to handle some of the remaining waste.
Metro bus routes subject to 'snow alert' conditions

When snow or icy driving conditions warrant, Metro will reroute service. It doesn't happen often, but when it does, you'll know. Information about these routes is contained in the 'Snow Rider Alert' brochure — a special, free Metro publication that riders will receive in their mailboxes and at bus stops. When snow or ice poses driving hazards, the brochure will be distributed by door-to-door mail carriers.

Whenever possible, Metro's public information staff will announce the decision to reroute service. Whenever possible, Metro's public information staff will announce the decision to reroute service. If you're not sure if your bus will be on time, call the Tracer System by dialing 275-3556.

Depending on road conditions, Metro may operate chained shuttles along difficult portions of some routes to connect with buses that can continue the journey. These shuttles, which follow regular routing, carry the designation, "Shuttle." Routes in which such a service is available are listed in the next section.

High expectations can boost anxiety

BY KARLA A. SMITH

The 23-year-old man said he was broke.

The sympathetic clerk gave him a cigarette and $1 worth of gas, while at the gas station because he called police. He said he wanted to get home.

The Federal Way man drove off near Saint Joseph Hospital, and the police had a mustache and wore a hat, weighing 180. He may have had a mustache and worn a hat, because a large amount of communications were talking the disease.

The greatest risk to someone who does not check for a discarded needle is a local, bacterial infection. Leifer says infections can be treated by antibiotics. Nevertheless, because of the public's growing concern, the Seattle-King County Public Health Department has issued a fact sheet, "You Can Protect Yourself and Others From Harmful Objects in Playgrounds." The flyer promotes proper disposal of needles, condoms and syringes. The flyer stresses the low risk of disease transmission from fer-reed and throwing away these items. Those are the three basic points the health department wants to make in response to those in charge of children; proper supervision of children; proper supervision of children, and not allowing them to pick up "balloons," training fences.

They want to do more than just transmit the disease. Those who do get stuck by a discarded needle are most likely to catch these diseases if they don't wash their hands with soap and water after getting poked. In most cases, these diseases are not transmitted to anyone else.

Some medical experts believe that growing numbers of people are not being treated for their symptoms. It is important to know how to replace your supplies properly.

They tend to abound this time of year. LeVan suggested, "I see-tac" is the season to be jolly. Take one day at the office when everyone comes in to work. "I see-tac" is the season to be jolly. Recruiters knocking on Dawson's door

Notre Dame courting Eagle, but Lake is taking his time

By CHUCK MENDOZA

Lake Dawson, the future is full of hope, high expectations and at least one big decision.

The Federal Way High School senior is considering football scholarship offers from four Pac-10 schools (UCLA, Washington, Washington State and California) and one major independent (Notre Dame).

"I've already had visits from two of these schools — Notre Dame and WSU — and will visit the remaining three in January before making final decisions in time for national letter of intent day in February.

"Right now I have a pretty good idea of what college I want to attend, but I don't want to say anything now," says Dawson, a standard offensive tackle and truck who also maintains a 3.3 grade-point average. "It's kind of early..."".

The gifted athlete became a coveted target of college recruiters when earning All-South Puget Sound League Puget Division first-team honors as a sophomore.

He already has visited two of these schools — Notre Dame and WSU — and will visit the remaining three in January before making final decisions in time for national letter of intent day in February.

Dawson was named GSPIL Puget Division Offensive Back of the Year after leading in a league-best 46 receptions for 324 yards and five touchdowns. He also intercepted eight passes.

For his efforts, Dawson has been rewarded with several post-season accolades, including being named to The Seattle Times All-Pac-10 team, The News Tribune's Tri-City All-West team, The Tacoma News-Tribune's all-city team and The Morning News' All-City team.

Dawson also has selected as the 1989 Gatorade Circle of Champions Washington High School Football Player of the Year, in quality for consideration as one of eight regional and one national Gatorade Player of the Year Award finalists.

Dawson has had college recruiters not only telephoning his home and visiting him at school, but knocking on his door as well.

Snowmaking saves the day for major destinations

Major ski destinations like Sun Valley, Idaho, Mt. Bachelor, Ore., and Mountain High in Reno, Nev., depend on the use of their snowmaking equipment for their survival. The past two months have seen some of the most consistent snowfall in the region, allowing ski areas to open early and provide excellent skiing conditions.

Mt. Bachelor, which traditionally does not open until December 15, opened four days early on November 11 after two weeks of snowfall. Mt. Bachelor spokesperson Sonia Johnston said the ski area had 70 inches of natural snow at the base and more than 10 feet at the top.

At Sun Valley, Idaho, the ski area opened on December 9, just two days after a snowstorm dropped 24 inches of snow at the base.

Sun Valley President Scott Senior said, "This is the best opening day we've had in recent memory. The snow is perfect and we are able to offer our guests an excellent skiing experience."

Despite the lack of snow, customers have bought more snowboards as far as this year than all but one year of the past few decades. In the early 1980s, snowboard sales were more popular every year. There are 300,000 people who have joined the growing killer sport in North America.

Christmas curises the blues, prompts joy

There is something in the air during Christmas that changes people's attitude. It may be the joy of giving or the excitement of receiving. Whatever it is, Christmas becomes happiness, a season for love, and even contested boredom.

Before deciding on what to give each year, a large cosmetics company conducted a survey to find out what Americans really want. This year, they asked people to think back and analyze how many times they, their family members, and their friends received gifts that were unexpected.

One of the most popular gifts this year was a bicycle. In fact, it was given to nearly everyone in the family. It was a surprise, and most people were pleased with the gift. However, some people had to be reminded to keep the bicycle off the sidewalk and in the garage to avoid damaging it.

On Christmas day, everyone celebrates the holiday by lighting the Christmas tree. The tree is a symbol of love and friendship, and it is often decorated with lights, ornaments, and flowers. People spend hours decorating the tree, and the results are often stunning.

The Christmas tree is a symbol of hope and joy, and it is often used as a symbol of the Christmas season. It is a symbol of the love and warmth that people share during the holiday season. It is a symbol of the hope that people have for a better future. It is a symbol of the love that people have for their families and friends. It is a symbol of the love that people have for their country.

Zip through holiday baking with microwave

- We get more cookies at this time of year than at any other, and most of them require baking. But there is no need to go out and buy cookie recipes just to adapt them.

- Cookies are baked in large batches, and the typical microwave can bake no more than a dozen or so at a time, so it's usually not worth the effort to use one. However, there are some things you can do with a microwave.

- To adapt a recipe, decrease the amount of baking soda or cream of tartar, since the microwave will have slightly longer rise time, as it is not as well to micro waving. This can cause a large batch to look uneven. If you wish, and decrease liquid slightly (see same amount of oil or shortening and other ingredients).

- Texture, flavor and appearance of bar cookies will appear more as cookies, but corners attract more tape to hold in place. Foil will tend to microwave unevenly.

- Drop cookies are baked in large batches, and the typical microwave can bake no more than a dozen or so at a time, so it's usually not worth the effort to use one. However, there is no need to go out and buy cookie recipes just to adapt them.

Last-minute shopping need not be a nightmare.

Even those of us who start out early with the best intentions somehow wind up searching frantically for last-minute presents at 4 p.m., Dec. 24, and finding nothing that can be wrapped up and given away. But that usually takes all the fun out of shopping. The stress and selecting presents for loved ones should be among the happiest moments of the holiday season. Indecision, bad weather, lines and crowds of hurried shoppers can get you down. So what's the best way to keep from getting frazzled during the holidays? A few simple gift shopping tips should help keep your spirits up.

One common mistake Christmas shoppers make is choosing gifts on a whim, without knowing the specific interests and hobbies of the person for whom the gift is intended. However, if you stay away from your own lack of expertise, there really is no "wrong" gift. Remember, few people have only one interest in life, and most of us enjoy receiving the little luxuries we ordinarily deny ourselves. If you make use of your own knowledge and interests, you have a much better chance of choosing a gift that will be appreciated.

Although we usually rely on our own judgment when shopping for ourselves, it is amusing to realize how little faith we have in our own taste when choosing for loved ones. Ask yourself first, "Do I like it?" Then consider why it may or may not be suitable for someone else. Still unsure? It's a good buy and a gift that might please more than one person, go ahead and get it. You'll thank yourself on Dec. 25 when you need a last minute gift. Even if you have enough money to purchase for everyone, if you like it, you won't be unhappy keeping it yourself.

Another tip is to buy multiples of an inexpensive, sure-to-please item, like an organizer or a drawer salt, and wrap them as a drawer sachet, and wrap them in a gift bag. This precaution is a life-saver when your colleagues show up at your Christmas party and you have forgotten their wives or husbands. Of course you are not obligated to give them gifts, but you won't be unhappy keeping it yourself.

When selecting presents for children, especially other people's children, it seems impossible to keep up with the trends in "in" toys and gadgets. Children are actually much choosier than adults. Since children develop at different rates, it is best not to give a toy that is for a specific age group. If you are really at a loss, ask the youngsters at your local toy store what the "in" toys and gadgets are, or watch a program on television that lists the hottest sellers. It certainly makes exchanging presents less awkward when one child is not left out.

Though a minor holiday, Hanukkah is special with the electric excitement of the festival season, Hanukkah is a blend of flavors. It gives this old holiday recipe a little twist. Potatoes, onions and carrots give this dish an exciting flavor, and the grand finale is the apple sauce and sour cream.

Ingredients
- 6 large apples (baking variety) or 6-7 apples
- 1 orange
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 2 tablespoons vanilla extract
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 cup water
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1 cinnamon stick
- 1 tablespoon grated nutmeg
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 tablespoon vanilla extract
- 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon grated nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon

Directions
1. Peel skin off apples and place on cutting board. Cut each apple into quarters. Using spoon or knife, cut seeds and core out of apples. Cut apple quarters into smaller pieces. Place in saucepan on cool burner. Either mash slightly, or turn heat medium. Let apples simmer for about 20 minutes, checking every 5 minutes or so with a stir. Once apples have softened and have mashed slightly, turn heat off. Put oven mitts on and put oven mitts into saucepan.
2. When hot, spoon about 1/4 cup potato pancake mixture into frying pan, pressing it slightly to form a pancake shape. Fry 2 minutes on first side, then use spatula to carefully flip potato pancakes over. Continue to cook pancakes for 5 more minutes. Slide pancake out of pan and set on an oven-safe plate. Allow to cool.
3. When ready to serve, turn the tree lights off and put out the tree decorations. Add apple sauce and sour cream over pancakes. Serve with a knife and spoon.

Select toys that spark children's imaginations

Successful Christmas shopping is a game of chance. A common substitute for the oft-mentioned 'event of the season' is the toy store. Children love to play with toys, and parents love to see their children happy. Here are some tips to help you choose the perfect gift for your child:

1. Choose a toy that is safe. Children are constantly changing and developing. They need toys that are active in nature and allow them to improve their skills, unless they are active in nature and allow them to improve their skills, unless they are active in nature and allow them to improve their skills.

2. Choose a toy that is educational. Children need toys that are active in nature and allow them to improve their skills, unless they are active in nature and allow them to improve their skills.

3. Choose a toy that is social. Children need toys that are active in nature and allow them to improve their skills, unless they are active in nature and allow them to improve their skills.

4. Choose a toy that is creative. Children need toys that are active in nature and allow them to improve their skills, unless they are active in nature and allow them to improve their skills.

Spiritual gifts allow you to indulge your own tastes

The four-year-old Hogue's diligent and conscientious parents have been working hard to create the perfect Christmas gift for their children. The parents have spent hours researching and planning, and have finally come up with the perfect gift: a set of personalized, handcrafted gifts for each child.

The gifts include:

- Personalized ornaments
- Customized jewelry
- Handmade cards
- Customized photo albums
- Personalized calendars

The parents have taken great care in selecting the gifts, and have chosen items that are both practical and sentimental. They hope that the gifts will bring joy and comfort to their children, and will be cherished for years to come.

The parents are pleased with the final result, and are looking forward to seeing the children's reactions. They know that the gifts will be a hit, and are excited to see the children's smiles.

Does anyone celebrate Hanukkah around here?

EMIL VAUGHES of Des Moines created this Christmas display for his roof. A carpenter and a locksmith by trade, the scene of Santa crashing the sleigh took three months to create. A series of motors, pulleys and hinges move the individual pieces around so that all passers-by are privileged to the crash. The display is at 2020 21st Ave. S.

Trendy gifts grab shopping spotlight

Americans are addicted to gimmicks. How else can you explain the sale of even one Pooh Bank? Deeper still runs our love of gadgets and gizmos. We're a nation that loves to tool around with new toys. Especially if you've lost your shopping ability at the last minute and are stumped for ideas.

But Simmicks are the gifts of inventors. Thomas Edison and the light bulb. Alexander Graham Bell and the telephone. Populark and the popcorn machine. At this time, our vulnerability to the latest do-hickey reveals its most fervent at Christmas. Especially if you've lost your shopping ability at the last minute and are stumped for ideas.

You ought to love 'em. Or maybe you don't.

They're dancing dandolions, hopping begonias, pulsating palm trees. Backed by the blare of a boomin' box or stereo and energized by a brace of AA batteries, Rock 'N Flowers have sprouted up in just about every toy shop and department store from here to the North Pole.

Clusters of customers often are found standing in front of their displays, mesmerized by the motion. Comments shopping spotlight manager at Spencer Gifts in SeaTac Mall, says they're aoccuring every day to $29.99.

Heads of Memphis puts out the Sonic Rocker and Dancing Duck for $49.99. For $12.95, the gift-giver can choose between black and white, the Auto-Eraser, a battery-operated gadget that looks something like a razor and works something like a Brillo pad. The eraser tip (refills available at $1.29) rotates rapidly until mistakes are obliterated.

“Makes erasing easy and fun!” claims the humble tag. Eraser maker nor the electric envelope opener company. Neither the Auto-Eraser nor the electric envelope opener company that makes this gadget. Neither the Auto-Eraser nor the electric envelope opener company.

H药ing a bad day in Flag City (a.k.a. Federal Way)? Did you get stuck at three traffic lights in a row running down South 350th Street on your way to work? Is the guy behind you blowing you for all of the problems in his life and leaving on his horn to tell the world about it? There's only one thing left to do. Moon him. That's right. If you've purchased one of these cute but creepy gadgets, you don't even have to drop your own drawers.

The secret is the lightstick, a plastic tube about 1½ inches long that fits into a hole drilled through the middle of the Nitelite Golfball. By bending the tube, you activate a chemical that causes the tube to glow a bright fluorescent green for up to six hours.

As far as golf balls go, this one probably doesn't. The professional Nitelite tournament in history was played on June 3, 1987, at the Urbana Golf and Country Club in Illinois. The winners were given a license to bounce back to you.

The folks at Pick Point Sports call the first professional Nitelite tournament in history was played on June 3, 1987, at the Urbana Golf and Country Club in Illinois. The winners were given a license to bounce back to you.

Nightlite Golfball. Why didn't you make it floatable? The secret is the lightstick, a plastic tube about 1½ inches long that fits into a hole drilled through the middle of the Nitelite Golfball. By bending the tube, you activate a chemical that causes the tube to glow a bright fluorescent green for up to six hours.

For $9.95 at the same shop, you'll receive full instructions on how to run a Nitelite tournament at your course, plus a membership patch, flagpins, cups and the 150-yard markers.

Clusters of onlookers, and even a few paying customers, have been prevalent gadget gift. The sound-activated devices attract attention wherever they are displayed.

LIKE DANDELIONS in the spring, dancing flowers have sprung up everywhere. They seem to be this year's most prevalent gadget gift. The sound-activated devices attract attention wherever they are displayed.

Cook early, warm in microwave, enjoy your party

Microwave Minutes

- Cook early, warm in microwave, enjoy your party
- There's no question about the easy preparation
- Preparation is simple and yet creamy and mellow. Again, there's not much microwaving.
- Simply soften the cream cheese, add other ingredients, and heat.
- To make ahead, follow my directions below the recipe.

Brandied Brie

1. Break brie into chunks and arrange in a microwave-safe casserole. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate until serving time. Uncover and microwave (High) 2 to 3 minutes or on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) 2 to 3 minutes, stirring once, until brie is just soft (not melted). Serve with fruit and/or crackers. Makes about 10 appetizer servings.

2. To make ahead: Prepare as above. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate until serving time. Uncover and microwave on Medium-Low (30 percent power, about 200 watts) 1 to 3 minutes or on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) 1 to 2 minutes, rotating dish once, until cheese just starts to melt.

3. Each serving — without fruit or crackers: 317 calories, 11g fat, 7g saturated fat, 10mg cholesterol.

Choose teaching toys instead of toxic ones

Day recommended the large blocks are a good toy. Day also recommends the large plastic ball with holes of different shapes cut into it. The ball comes in an attractive combination of baby blue, pink and purple, but it doesn’t advertising if one cannot figure out alone.
